ADVERTISEMENTS 191

these are WOODWARD

TO LEARN

It is for us students that Woodward exists. The development of our intellects is her primary concern. It is here in the library, in the classroom, in the lab, in the shop that we acquire the essentials of learning, here that we appreciate knowledge and workmanship, here that we first admire the keen mind and skillful hand. Here through the instruments of our instruction—books, problems, experiments, reports, compositions—we meet the challenge TO LEARN.

TO LIVE

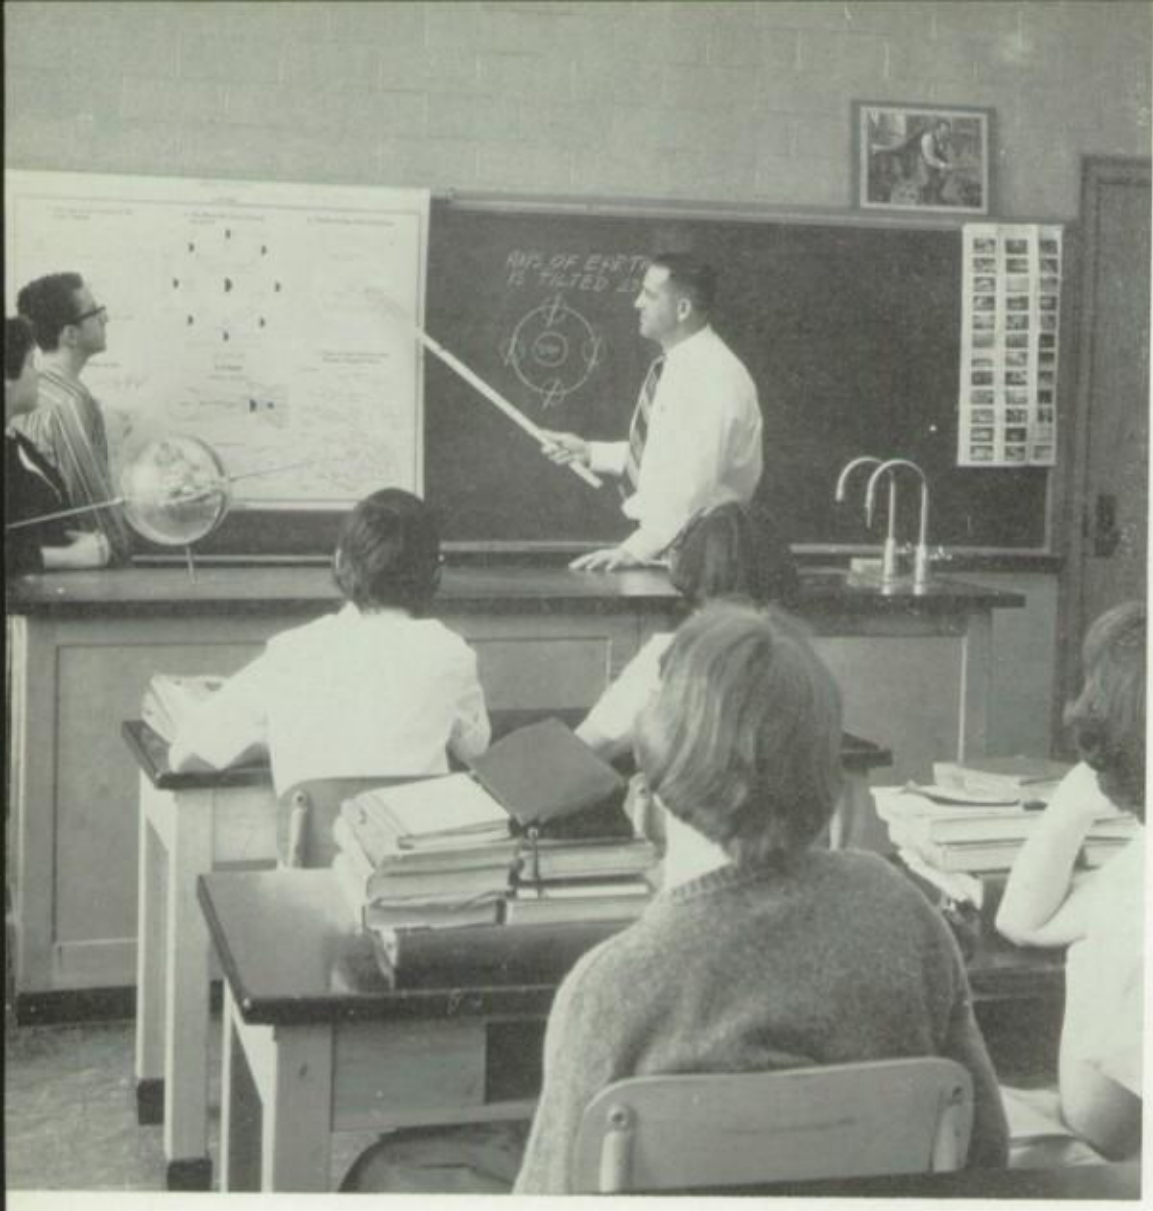
Through our zest for life we reflect the vividness of our personalities. We are constructive and imaginative, welcoming challenges, winning games, setting records. We are the vigor in life; how we do what we do is the color in living. We are the spirit of Woodward: at a football game, with flushed faces and sparkling eyes, tingling with excitement, bubbling with enthusiasm; at a basketball game, cheering ourselves hoarse, throbbing with hope, hushed with suspense, elated with victory. For us it is fascinating TO LIVE.

TO LOVE

Years at Woodward develop in us a capacity for self-respect, a concern for our fellow man, a loyalty to our country, and a clear conception of its values. This maturing of character reveals itself in our lasting friendships, school spirit, trust, and integrity. By this we realize what it is TO LOVE.

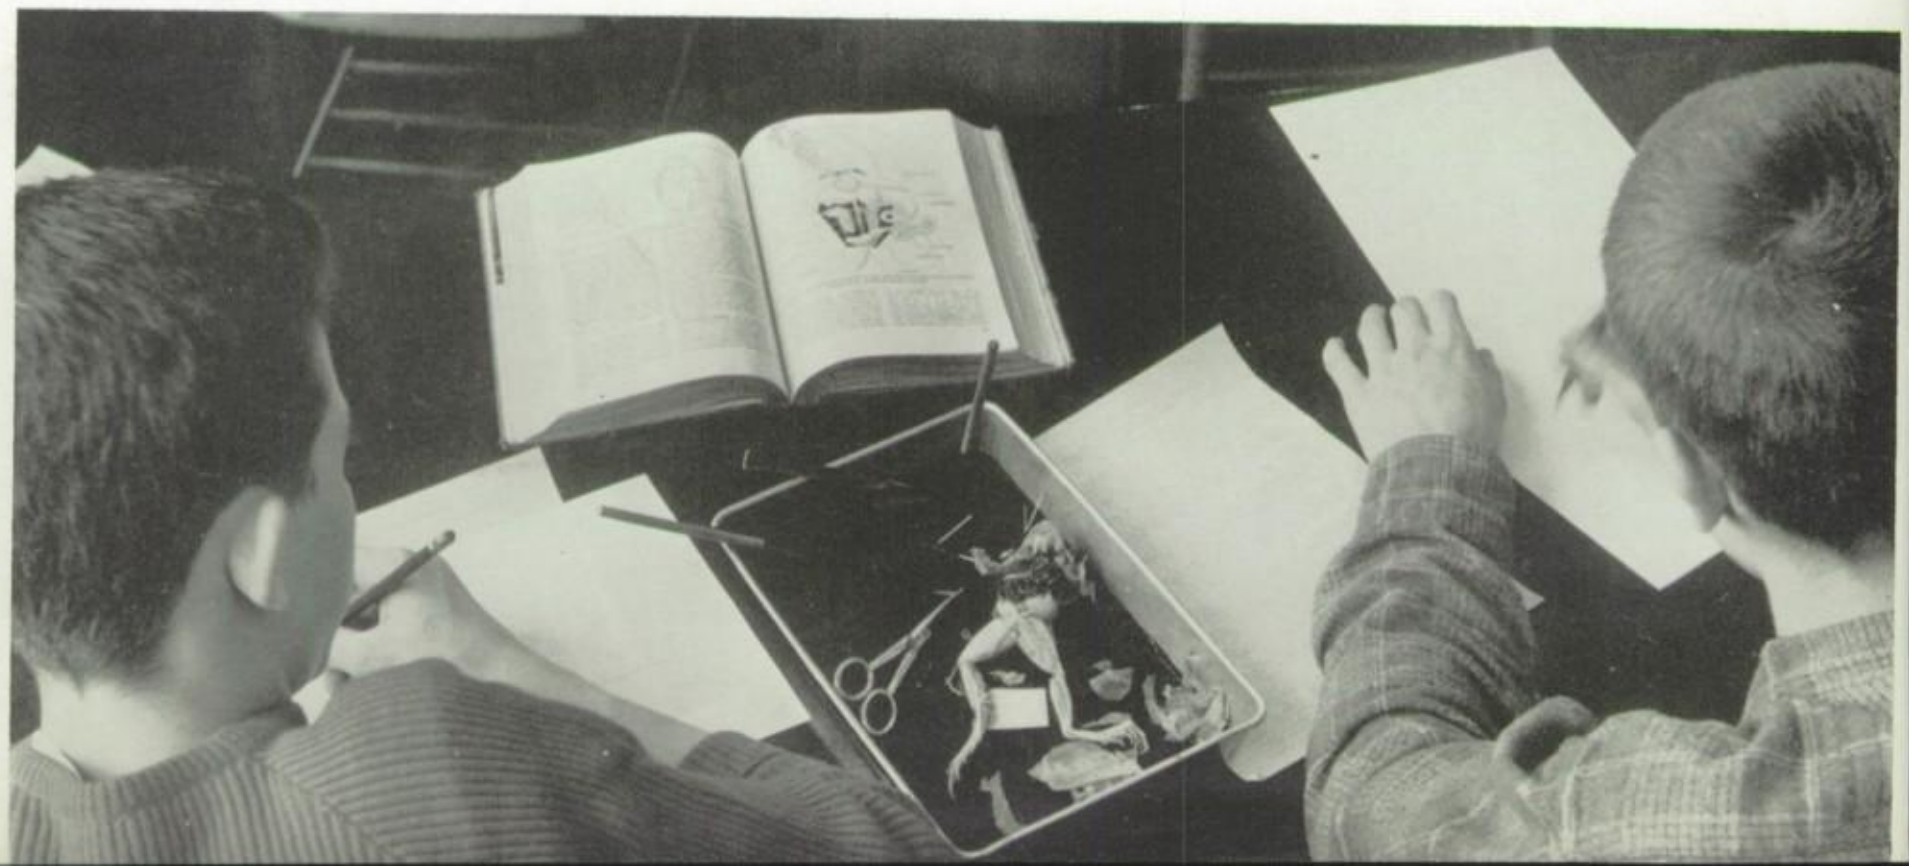
Learning, living, loving—these shape our lives; these make Woodward thrive; these are her treasures.

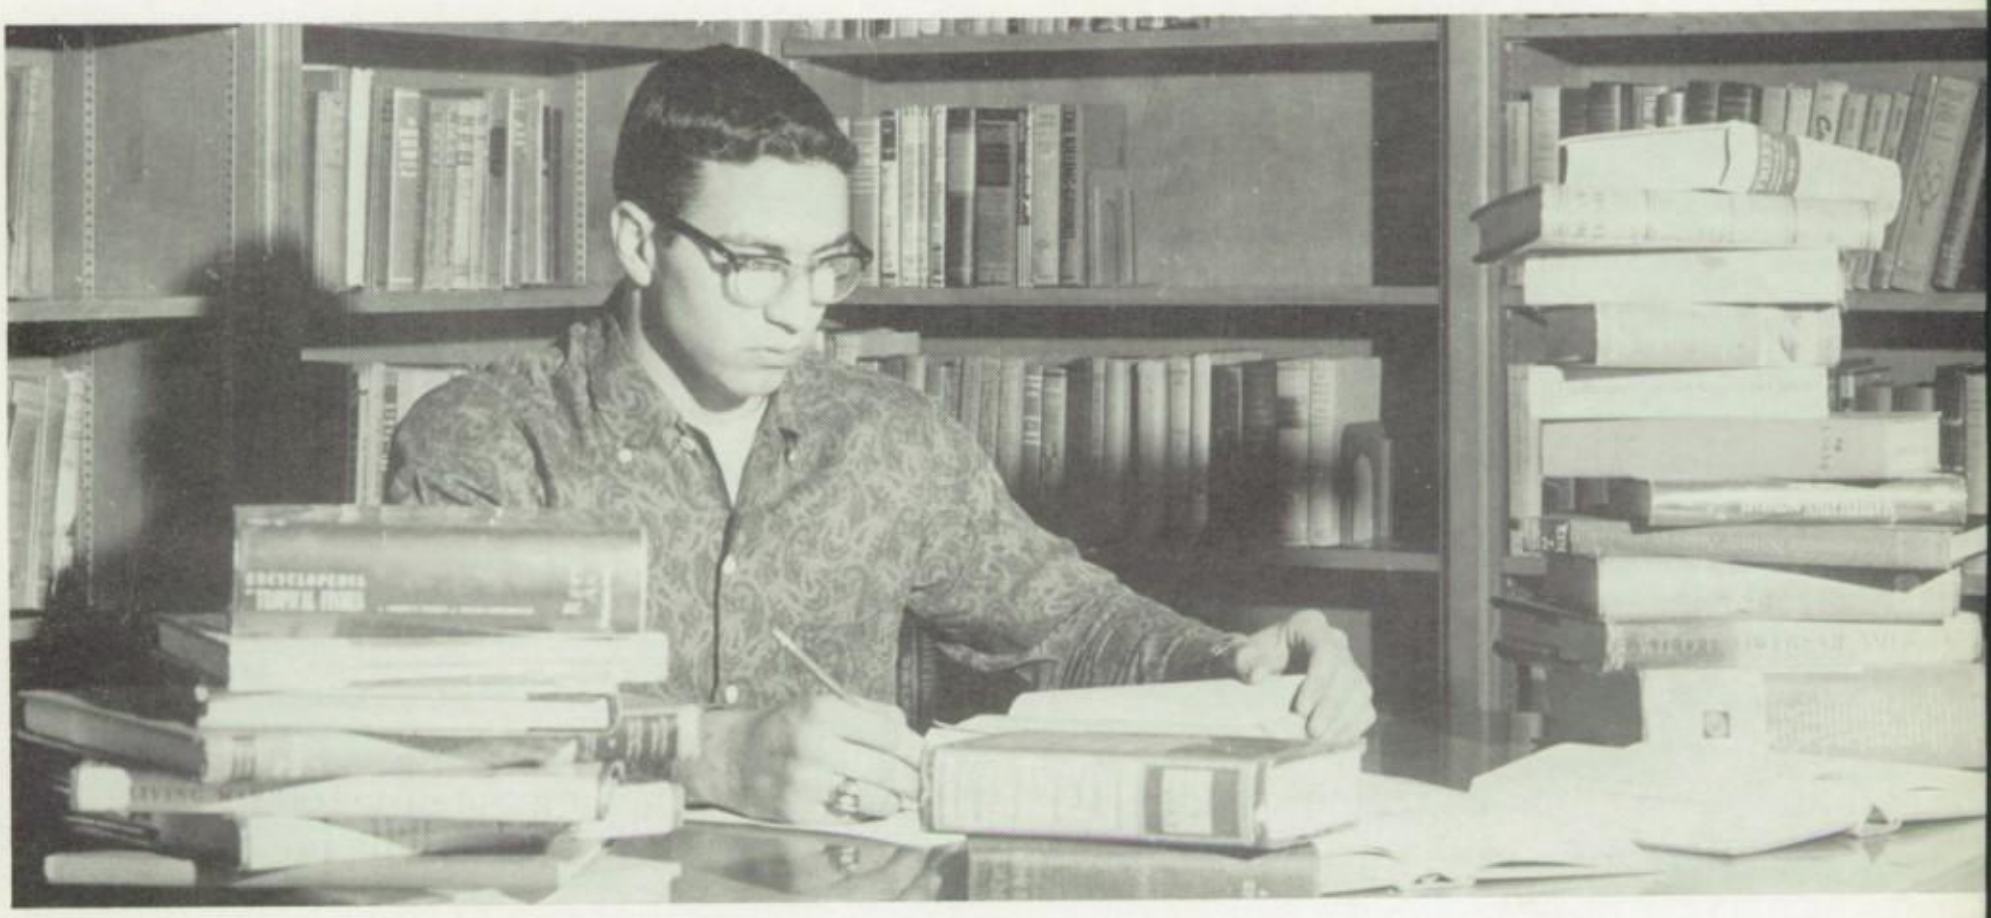
TREASURES



LEARNING IS A CHALLENGE ... A TASK ... A REWARD

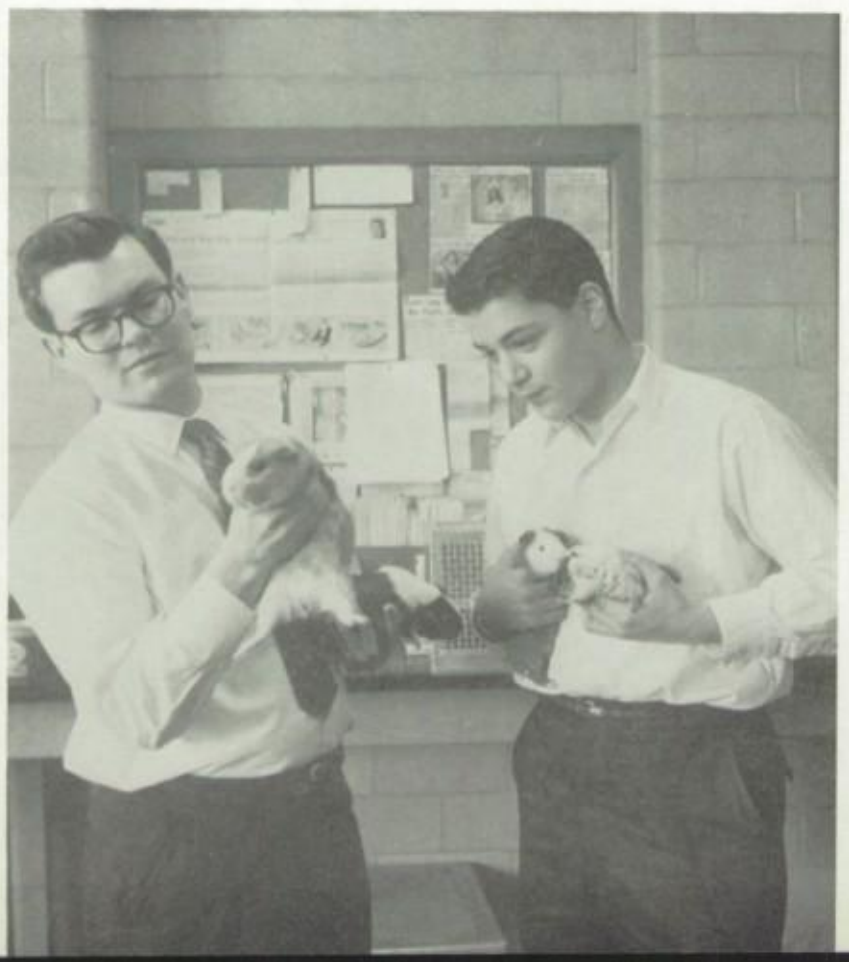
Our primary purpose at Woodward is to gain an education. The desire for knowledge burns within us. It can be sensed in the air—in the scattered conversations in the hall . . . in the din of voices in the lunchroom. It spurs heated discussion over a math problem or debate over an English essay. It is present in the noises and odors of lab . . . in the whine of the buzz saw or hum of the lathes in wood shop . . . in the sounds of a classroom or in the teacher's voice drifting down the hall.



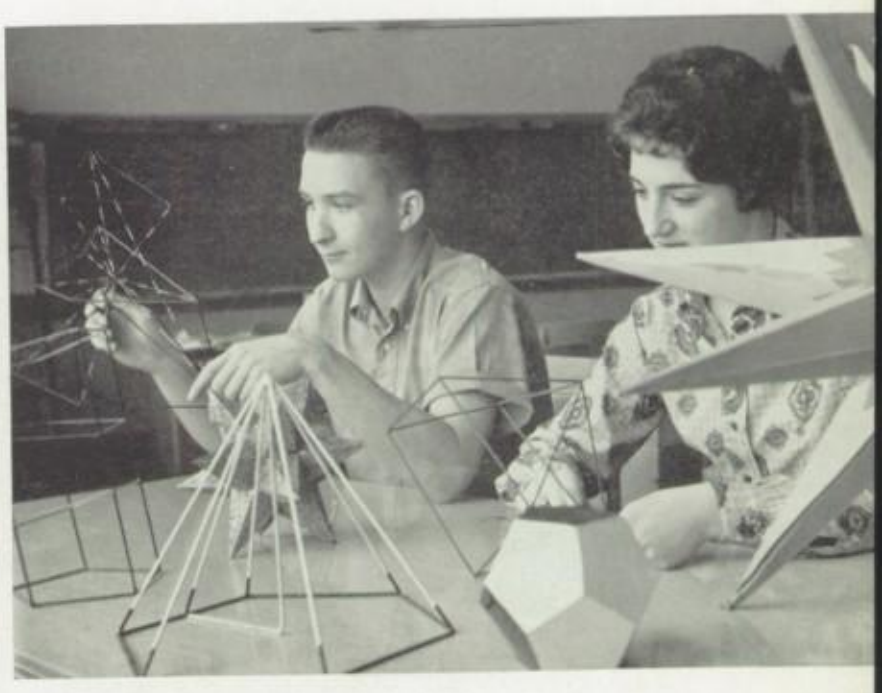


TO LEARN

This desire of the student to know wears many faces—the quizzical expression when he is confronted with shelves of unidentified chemicals . . . the wrinkled brow while he is taking a physics exam . . . the puzzled mien as he ponders a geometric proof. The power of this desire to attract and hold is reflected in attentive eyes and faces at a lecture, complete absorption over a microscope, intense interest in a book. Its joy is seen in the light dawning over the face of a student as he comprehends the explanation of a mathematical principle.



PERIODIC CHART OF THE ATOMS



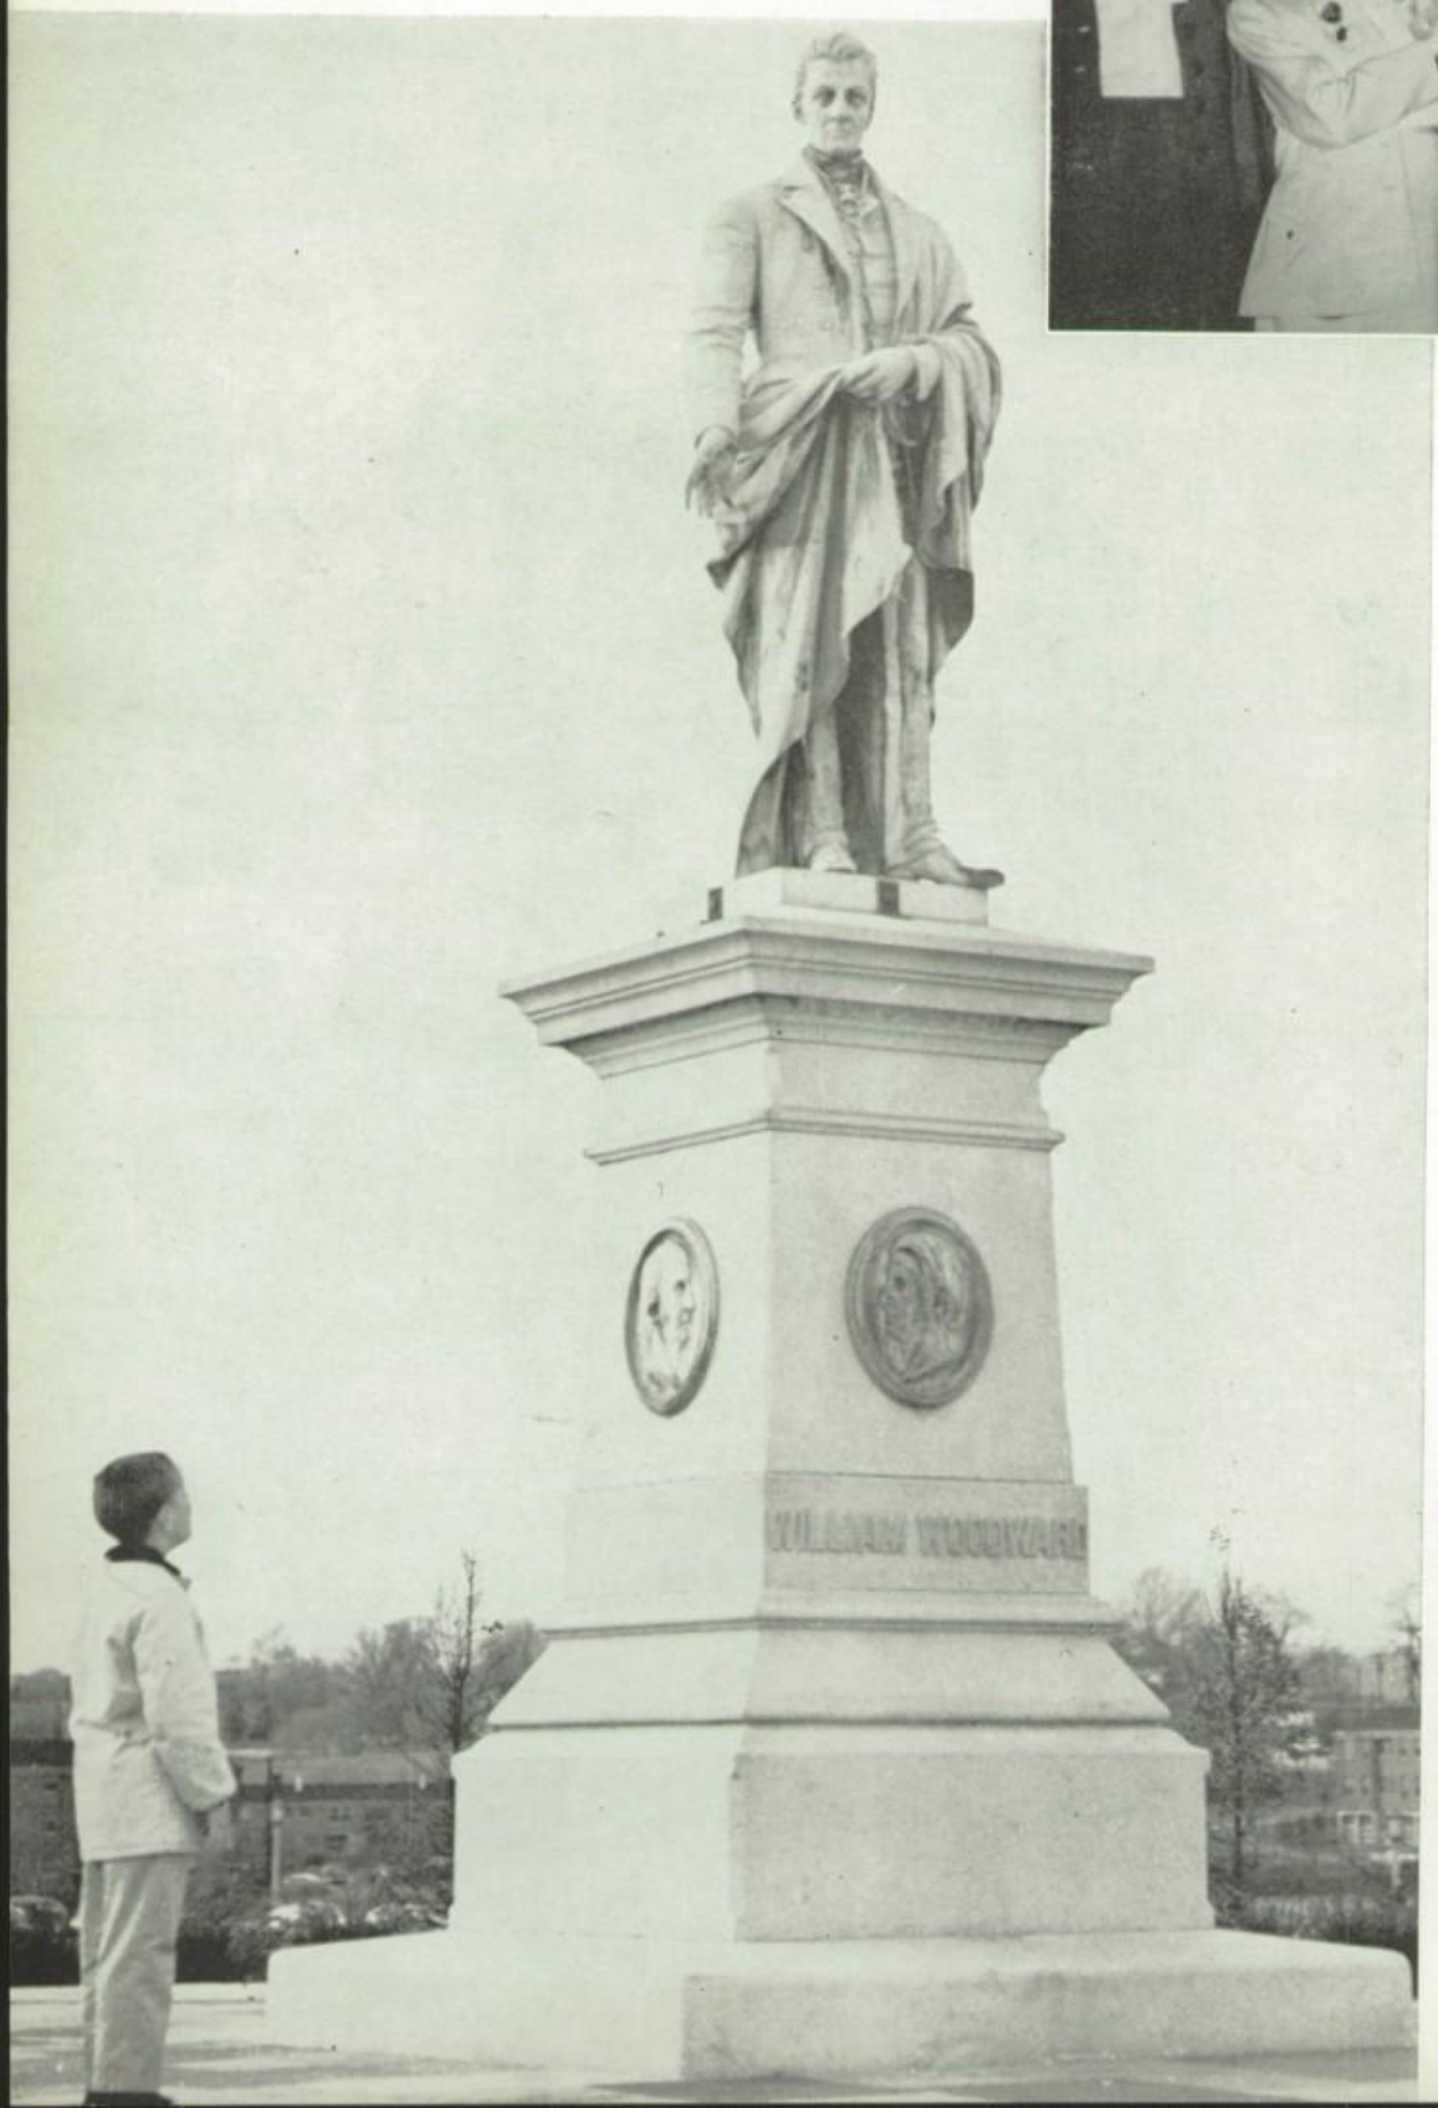
ENTHUSIASM FLAMING . . .
SPIRITS BUBBLING . . .
HOPES BURNING—WE LIVE

The thrill of our lives is in doing things. We love the bustle of activity . . . the intensity and fervor of youth. We are exuberant. Our spirits may be momentarily dampened, but they are always caught up again in the whirlpool of enthusiasm. Yet we sometimes pause in the rush of things to view calmly the stir of life and evaluate our places in it. We like to congregate . . . to talk in the front hall before and after school . . . to meet after a game or dance at an open house . . . to experience together the surprises and disappointments of life.

TO LIVE

Living is experiencing—the rush of emotions at a sports contest, the waking up on black wintry mornings, the confusion of the cafeteria, the telephone conversations, the race for the bus.

Though we love to experience the pulse of life, we also wish to distinguish ourselves individually. We have a flair for fads and fashions. We're normal, impulsive, original. We like to do uncommon things and be on our own in something new or interesting. Realizing the need for maturity and enjoying the process of growing up, with wonder and expectation we look to the future and the life it holds.



OUR FLAG, OUR FRIENDSHIPS, OUR FAITH...THESE WE LOVE

Love is a natural outgrowth of living and learning. The expression of this love through our noble qualities—trust, confidence, faith, mercy—gives meaning to life. It is seen in our worship, in our reverence in the Thanksgiving day assembly, in our patriotism. In these it becomes an ideal on which to build.

It is a purpose of Woodward to instill in us a sense of human values. We realize this by showing love—through our sympathy for the afflicted, through our giving baskets of food and clothing to the needy. This makes life rewarding. Life becomes more than mere existence; we in absence of this love would be no more than unemotional machines.

TO LOVE

Love being personal gives warmth to life. We see this in the young couple walking home from school, in the choir caroling the classes as it strolls in the Woodward halls, in the teacher helping a student with a problem or staying up late at night to finish grading papers, in the class rising for the pledge of allegiance or national anthem.

Thus in living and learning we love. This love we cherish; in its atmosphere we thrive. In the symbols of this love—the flag, the handclasp, the quiet prayer, the unselfish deed—we find joy. These are memories. These we treasure.

DEDICATION AND IN MEMORIAM

TO WINTON L. MOELLER

Mr. Winton L. Moeller has aptly been called the "founder of New Woodward High School." He was the man who successfully transplanted the century-old Woodward tradition in an ultra-modern building at Seymour Avenue and Reading Road. Mr. Moeller's story is one of faith and inspiration.

The story began in 1919 when Mr. Moeller entered Woodward as a freshman. Following a 1922 graduation he studied liberal arts at Wittenberg college; then he returned to Woodward in 1927. There, as a teacher and basketball coach, Mr. Moeller recognized his purpose in life—the guidance of Woodward youth. Named principal of his alma mater in 1950, he remained there until his unexpected death on August 23, 1959.

In his years of duty, Mr. Moeller was a man of great vigor: often his light burned late as he sought answers to school problems. He was a man of organization; his well-knotted tie, his elaborate files, his clean desk—each was a mark of efficiency. He considered organization indispensable to his purpose; anything out of place he felt would delay him.

Connected with this characteristic efficiency were sincerity and devotion. In embodying these qualities Winton L. Moeller created an air of dignity and honor that made association with him and Woodward High School a rich experience. These qualities also made him an educator and administrator of rare ability—firm but wise, demanding but patient, hard-working but fun-loving.

Certain successes and achievements attest to the effectiveness of Mr. Moeller. During his tenure as principal Woodward began offering college-level courses in English and math. And in his sixth year as first citizen of Woodward the school reached another peak—almost 73% of her graduates were continuing their educations after high school.

Such were the life and achievements of a man who, as said by Wendell Pierce, Superintendent of Schools, left "his life as an example of devotion to duty, concern for man's welfare, and faith in youth—thus in the future." Woodward does not wish Mr. Moeller's tireless effort to go unrewarded, and, though the sound is disproportionate to his deeds and silent to his ears, the school extends to him its warmest "Thank you."

To Winton L. Moeller, who served Woodward High School for over 30 years as student, teacher, coach, and principal, the 1960 WOODWARD TREASURES is gratefully dedicated.

WINTON L. MOELLER

OUR ADMINISTRATION AND FACULTY OPEN THE DOOR OF KNOWLEDGE

Homework distributors, paper markers, blackboard artists and authors, pencil stub collectors—these are a few of the many roles assumed by the members of the Woodward administration and faculty. Often we see them in class at the map pointing to a geographical location or at the end of the bell assigning our next day's work, or after school at their desks checking our tests with red pencils or filling out our report cards in blue ink, or in the office drafting announcements on a typewriter. By passing on what they have gained by experience, and by informing us of the wonderful advantages of knowledge, they impart and develop in us the desire TO LEARN.

These our teachers a'most equal us in their enthusiasm for life. They join us in vigorous activities, cheering lustily at games, joining in the humor and hilarity of a Friday afternoon pep rally. They have similar hopes, interests, and hobbies. As sponsors of clubs, as coaches, as advisors they encourage us to develop our talents and to have fun in the fields of learning that interest us. Nurturing our ambitions in a vast world, they counsel us in the creative and hopeful ideas which make it rewarding for us TO LIVE.

Knowing the need for firm standards, warm hearts, and faithful dedication, our teachers implant in us a correct sense of values. With judgment and discretion, they, as mature individuals presenting the truth, giving purpose in a future confused by doubts and fears, instill in our hearts the idea!s TO LOVE.

Learning is a lamp that casts rays of knowledge, penetrating the dark, dank world of ignorance.

MR. CLEON J. WINGARD—OUR PRINCIPAL

As first citizen of Woodward, Mr. Wingard addresses the Founder's Day assembly.

Mr. Wingard waves from "Doodlebug."

The Wingards sit in suspense as the Bulldogs put on a goal-line stand

Behind the imposing desk in the Principal's suite sits a man of great warmth and vigor, Mr. Cleon Wingard. He is an enthusiast for the active life—from a characteristic bowtie that cannot dangle in his work to a peppy azure Triumph sports car that perfectly embodies his open spirit.

What powers this man who manages to be two or three phone calls ahead of his work? What keys unlock the treasures of this man, Cleon J. Wingard, whose desk top lies submerged (except in pictures) beneath stacks and stacks of papers, beneath trays holding more papers, beneath pens and pencils, beneath an eight-pound Indian axe head, beneath a shining brass doorknob salvaged from a door at Old Woodward?

One key is certainly a memoranda pad on which are scribbled countless notations for return calls to the city-wide Explorer Planning Committee, the Cincinnati Schoolmasters' Club, and various other groups whose titles are undecipherable. Another clue is shelves loaded with books on education, pamphlets and magazines on the latest ideas in effective educational organization, and manuals depicting Woodward over the years.

But this is the Woodward Wingard. What further indications of the real man are found in his home? Immediately catching the eye is a library containing forty to fifty volumes on the American Indian, and a spectacular collection of some 4000 artefacts representing all phases of Indian culture. This is the hobby that occupies most of Mr. Wingard's spare time ("spare time" is a misleading term; "squeezed in time" is better). Another hobby is astronomy. In this field Mr. Wingard has amassed another library, dealing mostly with lunar phenomena. Perhaps Mr. Wingard's most revealing hobby is Sunday paper work at the high school.

It is not difficult to understand why a man with the passion for active life of Cleon Wingard spends his Sundays behind his office desk, for this very act explains that his love for life goes far beyond selfish participation; his desire to help others get the same enjoyment is strong. His method of accomplishing this end is education.

Early in Mr. Wingard's life, however, there was little to influence his educational desires. In Johnstown, Pennsylvania, he attended a high school of some 750 youths where athletics—not academics—were stressed. After graduation Mr. Wingard enrolled at the University of Pittsburgh as a pre-medical student. But, after one year, something happened to alter his intended routine; he taught at Faulk's Experimental School at the University. Promptly he changed his courses of study to science education and received his B.S. degree.

In 1935, after earning an M.A. degree at the University of Cincinnati, an eager Cleon Wingard was named as a teacher and assistant principal at Garfield School in Cincinnati. 1948 found Mr. Wingard at Sand's School, and 1954 brought him to Abigail Cutter Junior High (Old Woodward). Here he became acquainted with the rich traditions of Woodward—through the monuments, through the publications of 130 years of loyal students, through an impressive stained glass window, picturing William Woodward as he journeyed down the Ohio on a flatboat.

Then, in August, 1959, after the death of Winton L. Moeller, Cleon Wingard was appointed to the mammoth task of guiding Woodward High School. Yet he has assumed this position with an assuring confidence, a warm sincerity, and a hopeful satisfaction. Following but his first successful year as Principal, Mr. Wingard has firmly implanted himself in the Woodward tradition that is proud to receive him.

MR. ARTHUR I. VIGARD
Assistant Principal of Senior High

QUIET EFFICIENCY TYPIFIES MR. VIGARD

Friendly, firm Mr. Arthur Vigard, sitting at his desk on which are his papers, nameplate, and telephone, is the first impression Woodward makes on many enrolling students. Besides welcoming these pupils and handling transfers and withdrawals, Mr. Vigard is responsible also for the cafeteria. By directing over two thousand teenagers through the lines in little over an hour, he performs the daily feat of restricting the lunch schedule to the fourth period only. He also orders and distributes textbooks, solves disciplinary and attendance problems, and administers science, mathematics, and business classes.

MR. SHRIMPTON LEADS JUNIOR HIGH

Dealing with frustrated students is only a part of Mr. Eugene Shrimpton's job as chief administrator of the junior high. Besides pulling candy out of stubborn candy machines and returning lost nickles and dimes, he also manages lockers, checks on habitual "skippers," and maintains discipline. Supervising the student store, directing instruction programs, and scheduling meetings of the art, industrial art, home economics, and social studies departments are the other areas under his supervision.

OUR COUNSELLORS GUIDE US

With a perforated College Board scorecard in her hand, Miss Zerita Schwartz reports results to Woodward students—just one of her many duties as senior and co-sophomore counsellor. She also publishes the Senior Outlook, a pamphlet designed to aid the upperclassmen by rendering information on college prospects and senior activities.

Usually smiling and with a twinkle in his eye, Mr. John McConnell counsels the eleventh and half of the tenth grades. Conducting career workshops and advising pupils as to how to prepare for scholarship possibilities are some of his services.

Welcoming incoming seventh graders and allaying their fears concerning high school occupies a large part of Miss Georgie Blackwell's time as junior high counsellor. She also keeps tab on the scholastic and personality records of the eighth and ninth graders

BOOKS, BOOKS, AND MORE BOOKS

Ordering new books, straightening files, typing records, and taking inventory keep the librarians busy: Mrs. Helen Jay, the late Mrs. Ruth Brigode and Mrs. Anna Borchin.

In the library browsing through a periodical or scanning a text, at home reading a novel or perusing a biography—in work or play, at school or home, we learn and relax through books. Whether we lie twisted in a favorite window nook before school or lean against a locker, or recline comfortably on the davenport at home, wherever we are, books are our constant companions. They are records of our lives . . . of hopes and disappointments, of sports heroes and dance queens, of National Merit finalists and Scholastic Art winners, of coke parties and campfires. Through them we read of the past—of colonial South, Victorian England, Spanish America . . . of the Arctic and Gobi wastelands, the American plains and pampas, the African and Indian jungles, the Himalayas and Rockies. With books we also look to the future—to careers, marriage, vacations, graduation. In books we identify ourselves with successful characters —with powerful executives, renowned scientists, famous politicians, or respected authors. We read books; we make them.

OF A GLORIOUS TOMORROW

With eyes looking forward in determination, lips firm in purpose, chins set in resolution, we look to tomorrow. Our past has made us what we are and determines what we will be. We have been leaders on the Student Council Executive Board and various other club offices. We have shown ourselves proficient in both athletics and academic fields, have displayed our talents both physically and mentally. We are musicians and artists; we participate in Showcase and other dramatic productions. Wherever we have been we have left an impression; we have left our records in sports, our scores in class, and our accomplishments in extracurricular activities. An impression too has been made on us. We are no longer the gawky, childish, carefree youths who entered Woodward but are conscientious, mature students who with shining eyes and hopeful hearts look to tomorrow and the life it holds.

HANDS, IDEAS TRANSMIT THE IMPULSE TO CREATE

Creativity adds flavor to our normal school routine. Through the jazz in the lunchroom, the choral music of the ensemble, canvases, poems and essays—through these shine our personalities. Through us in room 168 creativity is expressed in the harmony of voices, in B-45 in the consonance and dissonance of the band, in room 153 in the strains of the string orchestra.

Creativity inspires the feature articles and satiric editorials of the "Bulldog Barks" . . . the unique ideas and lucid technique of the WOODWARD TREASURES . . . the catchy ads of both school publications. From it stem the snappy jingles of the morning P.A. announcers and clever slogans of class office candidates.

We admire the creative student. We hear him in special programs in the auditorium, see his handiwork in the showcases, applaud his efforts on the stage, listen to and think over his ideas in class. We learn to appreciate the writings of his fluent pen, the strokes of his graceful brush . . . his violin bow and sculpture knife. We admire his artistic touch . . . his mark of creativity.

IN OUR EXPECTANT EYES GLOWS RADIANT CURIOSITY

The mystery of the unknown fascinates us. It draws and holds our attention. We wonder why clear phenolphthalein and clear sodium hydroxide yield a red solution . . . why a stone dropped vertically reaches the ground no sooner than one thrown horizontally . . . why mathematical pi is 3.14 and not 3.41.

By inductive thinking in mathematics we pave the road into realms beyond our perception; we solve geometrical proofs that will help us derive future theorems. In economics we attempt to predict the business cycle by statistics. In our hobbies, in our science clubs, through projects, by microscopes, we explore the minute world of algae, protein, and protozoa; by telescopes, by rockets constructed on extra-curricular time, we learn about interstellar space. Through the cloud chamber, by the electrostatic generator, we penetrate the world of atoms and energy waves. In sociology we delve into the factors forming our personalities. We try to explain what makes us "tick."

PLANTS AND ANIMALS INTRIGUE STUDENTS

The various levels of life fall into definite orders and form wonderful patterns. This we learn at Woodward in biology, botany, and zoology. We see how the various kinds of animals are similar and different; how they are similar by the common need for basic vital life processes; how they are different by the gaps between the different levels. We see how mammals are higher than reptiles which, in turn, are higher than insects, and so forth, down to the protozoa. We curiously watch guinea pigs, rats, snakes, and turtles to see how they respond to certain types of stimuli. Through these laboratory pets we attempt to learn about how we function and exist. We notice that at certain temperatures we are sluggish and these animals are alert, at other temperatures vice-versa. Through our analyses we determine the causes of sickness, of certain irascible actions, of abnormal behavior. With formaldehyde, plastics, and notebooks we preserve our specimens. Maybe, we hope, from the results of our research we may find the secret of life.

EXPERIENCE SHAPES DIVERSE TALENTS

A deft twist of the wheel that avoids an accident, a clever ad-lib that maintains a production's smoothness, decisive judgment that wins a crucial contest—all are the results of experience. At Woodward we are given a chance to practice manually what has been acquired mentally. In our shops, music departments, art and writing classes, we actually experiment in methods of organization, patterns of repetition, and systems of variation. We realize the importance of concrete expression and specific detail and information. We prepare for our everyday lives—driving, speaking, listening, cooking, repairing. Through experience we are trained to meet the common problems of life with calmness and efficiency.

BY SUCCINCT LANGUAGE WE COMMUNICATE

With effortless grace the lithe ballerina glides across the proscenium; with clasped hands and anguished expression the young actor twists his face upward; with articulate syllables the youthful orator delivers his speech; with a critical eye the student writer polishes his essay. These four Woodwardites have one thing in common; they are communicating. In their various modes of expression—one by movement, one by gesture, one by rhetoric, and one by script—they transmit a message. Thus at Woodward the ability to communicate, one of man's elevating characteristics, is cultivated. In the debate and drama clubs, modern dance and Pollywogs, choir and band, communication is the basis of organization. The student puts himself into what he is doing. He must present his interpretation of life, of a measure of music, of an idea, of an emotion, of a new concept. Therefore Woodward exists—to offer the student every opportunity to learn the fundamentals and to acquire the knowledge of experience.

To recognize those students who possess the individual quality of character, the social virture of citizenship . . . who serve their school and community . . . who maintain high academic averages—to recognize these as leaders is the endeavor of the Woodward chapter of the National Honor Society.

During the year, the senior high division of this organization has, under the direction of Miss Maita Levine, presented many profitable and interesting programs. The December initiation banquet and ceremony highlighted the year, soon followed by such programs as a book review (The Ugly American), a panel discussion (Gripes Against Grownups), special speakers, a bowling party, and spring picnic. Through open houses and car washes the Honor Society was able to present the school a set of dictionaries. On Founder's Day the Honor Society also supplied ushers and waitresses.

Highlighted by the somber glow of the Torch of Knowledge are Honor Society officers Richard Stoltzman, Barb Pesout, Jim Behr, and Peggy Biven.

A FUN LOVING FACULTY STIMULATES ACTION

This year, more than ever, our teachers enriched school life by joining the students in various activities. As "cheerleaders" and "fans," they increased the laughter in the pep assemblies. As "newsboys" for the Bulldog Barks they upped the sales for the writing contest prize fund. Their cooperation, assistance, and advice were most vital to the success of such extracurricular activities as the WOODWARD TREASURES.

A side of our faculty that we seldom saw was their private home life. Some had families and brought these to school functions. Some had hobbies which they immensely enjoyed and which they encouraged us to enter and enjoy. As normal citizens, they had their own homes to build, maintain, and repair; their own income tax forms to fill out; their own vacations to plan. We learned to appreciate these Americans who to us dedicated the hours between 8:30 A.M. and 3:00 P.M. This they have done for us and more.

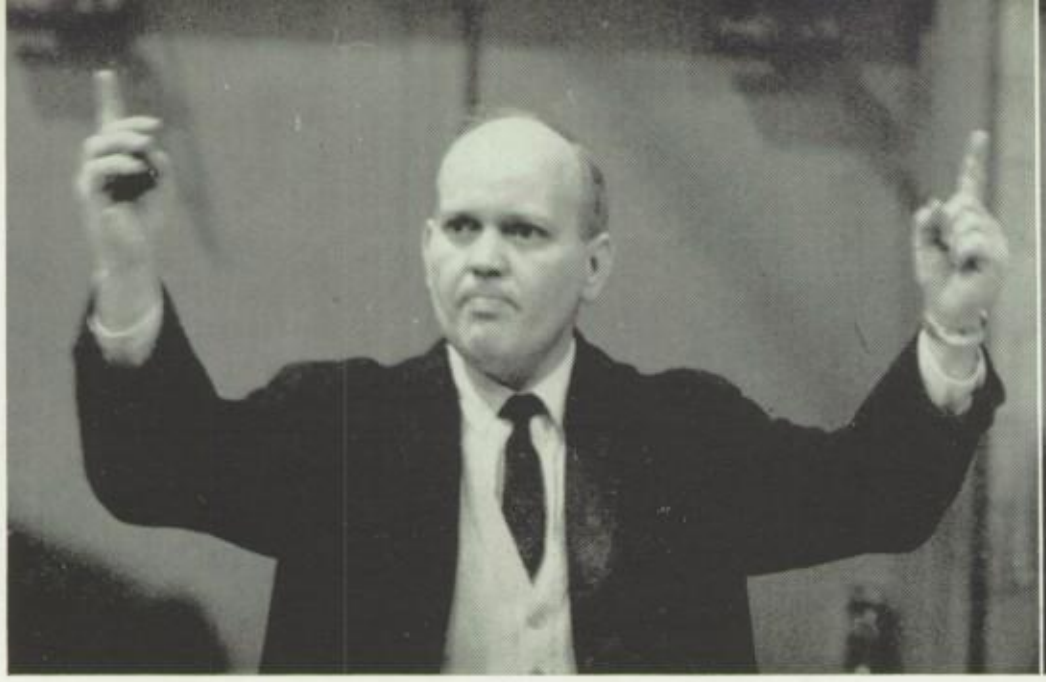
Enthusiastic teachers charge Woodward spirit

TREASURE'S photographer beats Mr. Horton to the snap

Holding the blueprint of his self-built "dream house," Mr. Ruley invites TREASURE'S photographer in for tour.



It was at least this big!

Well, maybe this big

The largest quartet in the world tunes up

The faculty zestfully competes in basketball

Checking in, Mr. Kerns slides his punch card in the machine

In the afternoon shadows, he locks his room

UNDERCLASSMEN ARE THE SPIRIT

Underclass years begin with the seventh grade. At that time youngsters are exposed to a high school routine that is wondrous and awful to them. Some of the seventh graders have difficulty reaching the tops of their lockers; many are lost and pushed and pounded during passing bells. Yet the little folks endure these knocks and grow. Each year their schooling advances—from memorization to reasoning to interpretation of controversial subjects. It is the duty of underclass youth TO LEARN. Underclass life presents far more than classroom study, however. There is a spirit that increases with each additional year of enro'lment; a spirit that is found in the enthusiasm of seventh graders and in the pride of upperclassmen. There are personalities and laughs and moments of seriousness that make it enjoyable and rewarding TO LIVE. Underclassmen come to know and uphold Woodward traditions and to become part of these traditions. These they learn TO LOVE.

AND FUTURE OF WOODWARD

A frenzied crowd of political campaigners is incited to a high pitch by a candidate's promises and list of qualifications.

THE STUDENTS

As underclassmen we realize that it is our duty to prepare for taking over the leadership of our school. To us falls the task of maintaining the highest standards and ideals which the senior class has established. Though the challenges bewilder us, we accept with pride and enthusiasm the job of preserving the Woodward tradition—a tradition which has dwelt for over a century and a quarter in the hearts of underclassmen. As youngsters in the society of Woodward High School, we must learn to understand the principles and precepts that govern our ever-expanding student body.

Senior Pep Club ignited the explosion of enthusiasm that rocked Woodward this year. Officers are: Nancy Kleine, Recording Secretary; Marjie Levin, Corresponding Secretary; Jay Wasserman, President; Louise Meyer, Vice-President; Doris Hargy, Historian. (Not pictured is Treasurer Jim Schwab).

In a maze of wires, trying to contact the projector room, is Myron Hermon, stage crew member.

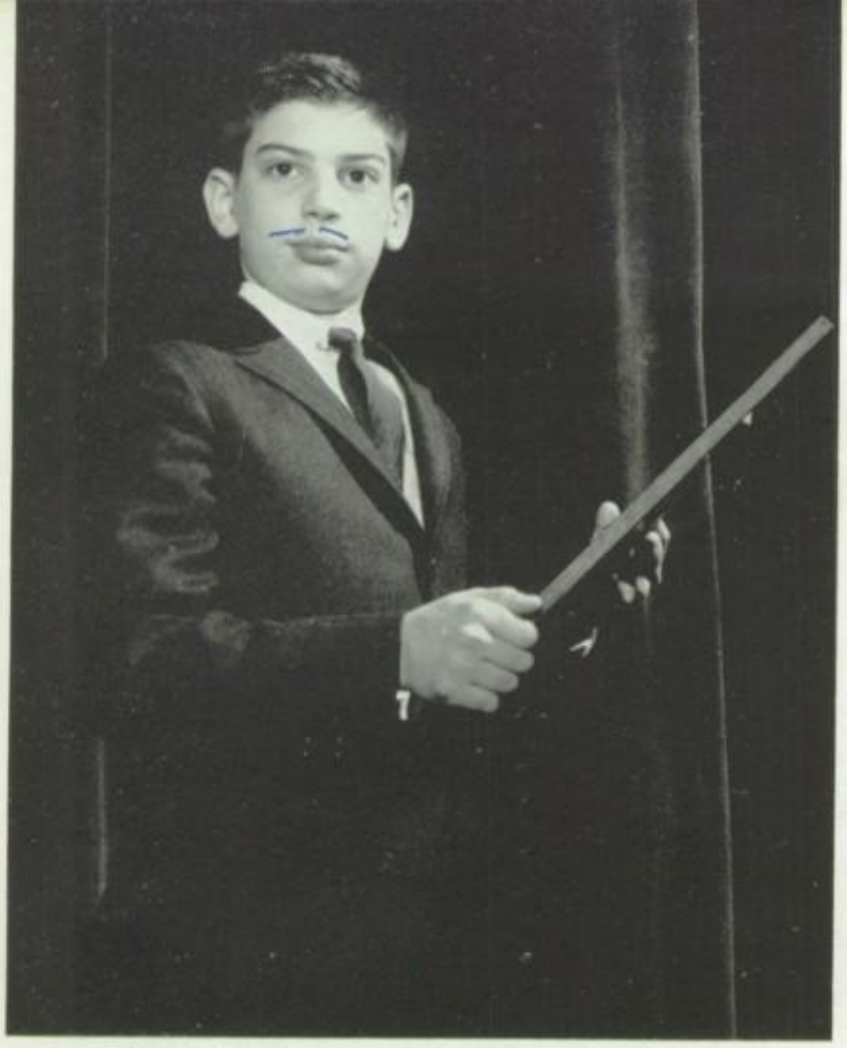
A common sight in the Woodward circle is that of vivacious students waving from their cars.

FIRE SCHOOL LIFE WITH ENTHUSIASM

Student support means school spirit

Feeling slightly silly from the exhaustion of decorating for the second Royal Shuffle are Barbee DeHart, Linda Rubel and Jim Behr.

The senior Christmas party in the Meridian Room was given "kicks" by this "horse chorus."



Johnny Mastronardo, originator of the Ohio State Motto, "With God All Things Are Possible," holds his citation like a prospective Teddy Roosevelt—" . . . carry a big stick."

BEWILDERED ROOKIES ADJUST TO ROUTINE OF BUSTLING SCHOOL

The seventh grade is the year of adjustment. By the end of the first six weeks, the little folks are growing up. They are becoming accustomed to the large school, advanced work, and unlimited activities. They are beginning to arrive at classes on time, finally establishing a route though the halls. Locker trouble is less frequent; combinations become familiar. The seventh-grader is finding his way into the Woodward tradition.

Big Sisters Jan Seaman and Merrille Koffler take time to aid their little sisters, Sharon Skurow and Rockell Dombar.

EIGHTH GRADE ENERGY STIMULATES ACHIEVEMENT, PROVIDES SATISFACTION

The Junior High School is a world in itself and eighth-graders are among those who enjoy it. Now acquainted with the high school, they enthusiastically join clubs and activities. Many participate in Junior Student Council, Junior Drama Club, and in the Junior High Band and Choir. The Hobby Club has aroused their interest with an overflow turnout of energetic eighth-graders. Promising young athletes perform on the Junior High teams which provide rugged competition for rival schools. Regardless of the activities they pursue, eighth-graders study hard and play hard—the combination resulting in a successful year.

FRESHMEN ASSUME LEADERSHIP, PRIVILEGES OF JUNIOR HIGH ACTIVITIES

"Mmm mmm . . . cherry pie and sweet rolls"

Freshmen are the leaders of the junior high school. Elected officers of high clubs, they assume additional responsibilities as organizers. Many are initiated into Junior National Honor Society—the highest achievement of the ninth-grader. The freshmen guide an inexperienced junior high, and with this task enjoy new respect. Junior high athletics include football, basketball, swimming, and tumbling. For the girls Junior G.A.A. offers soccer, volleyball, badminton, and softball. Climaxing the year is a spring dance that provides a sentimental memory for every freshman.

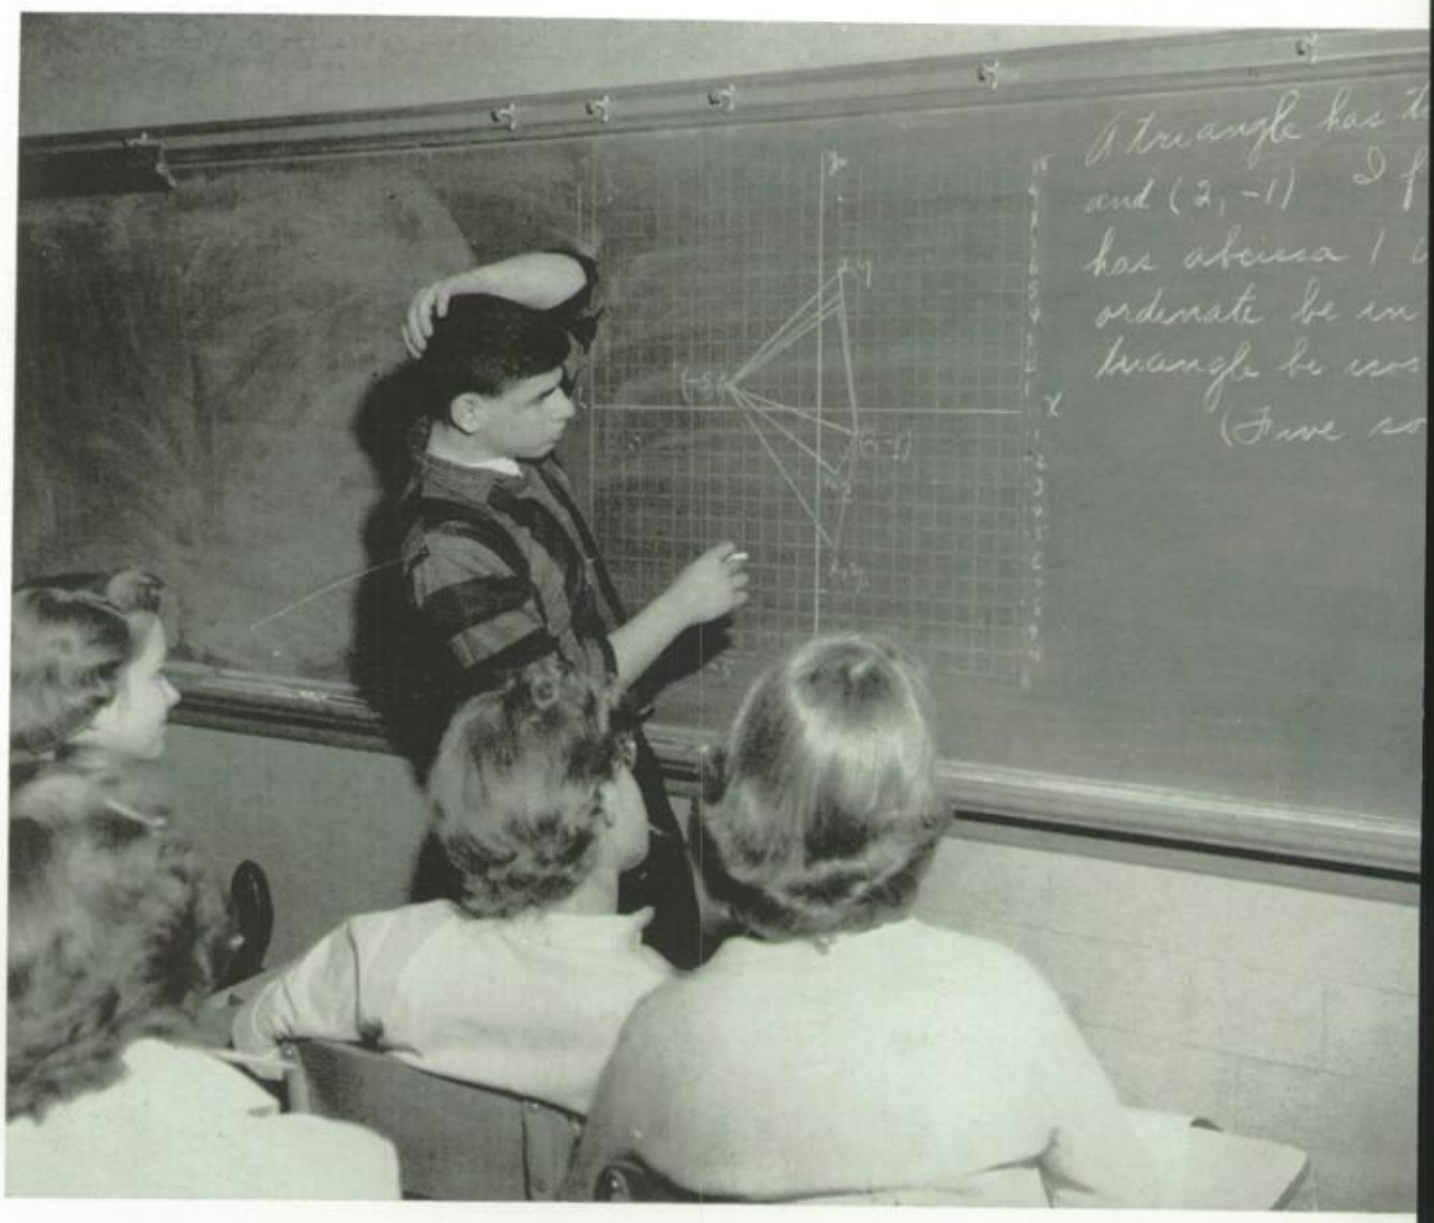
SOPHOMORES FEEL THE EXCITEMENT AND PRESSURE OF SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL

The tenth grade is a year of decision. College preparatory schedules with advanced placement programs are offered to the aggressive student. One must decide whether or not to join a sorority, fraternity, or remain independent. In the sophomore year students have the opportunity to join many clubs. The eager tenth-graders must judge and choose wisely, deciding for himself if he is capable of maintaining classroom standards under the load of activities. Not only do his decisions affect his high school routine, but they also have a far-reaching effect upon his life. In the tenth grade, a student should form plans for his post-high school career and correlate his high school program with these plans. The tenth grader realizes that his road to success is made infinitely easier by preparation and planning.



Beware, freshmen—this is geometry, the nemesis of all sophomores.

RESPONSIBILITY INCREASES WITH OPPORTUNITY IN THE JUNIOR YEAR

Responsibility increases with opportunity in the second year of high school. Juniors are eligible for offices in clubs in preparation for becoming leaders in the school. Participating in several sports the Junior boys have been members of Woodward's championship football team and of other varsity squads. The girls, not content as spectators, have formed Cheerblock which has bolstered school spirit. For the first time in his life each Junior has had the opportunity to plan and attend his own dance—the Junior Prom. Any Junior interested is placed on a committee to contribute his ideas for a successful dance. The task of supervising the various committees falls into the capable hands of the class officers. It is their responsibility to see that all the plans are accurate and practical. Every detail must be considered if the Prom is to be a memorable occasion for all.

IN AN EXPLOSION OF ACTIVITIES

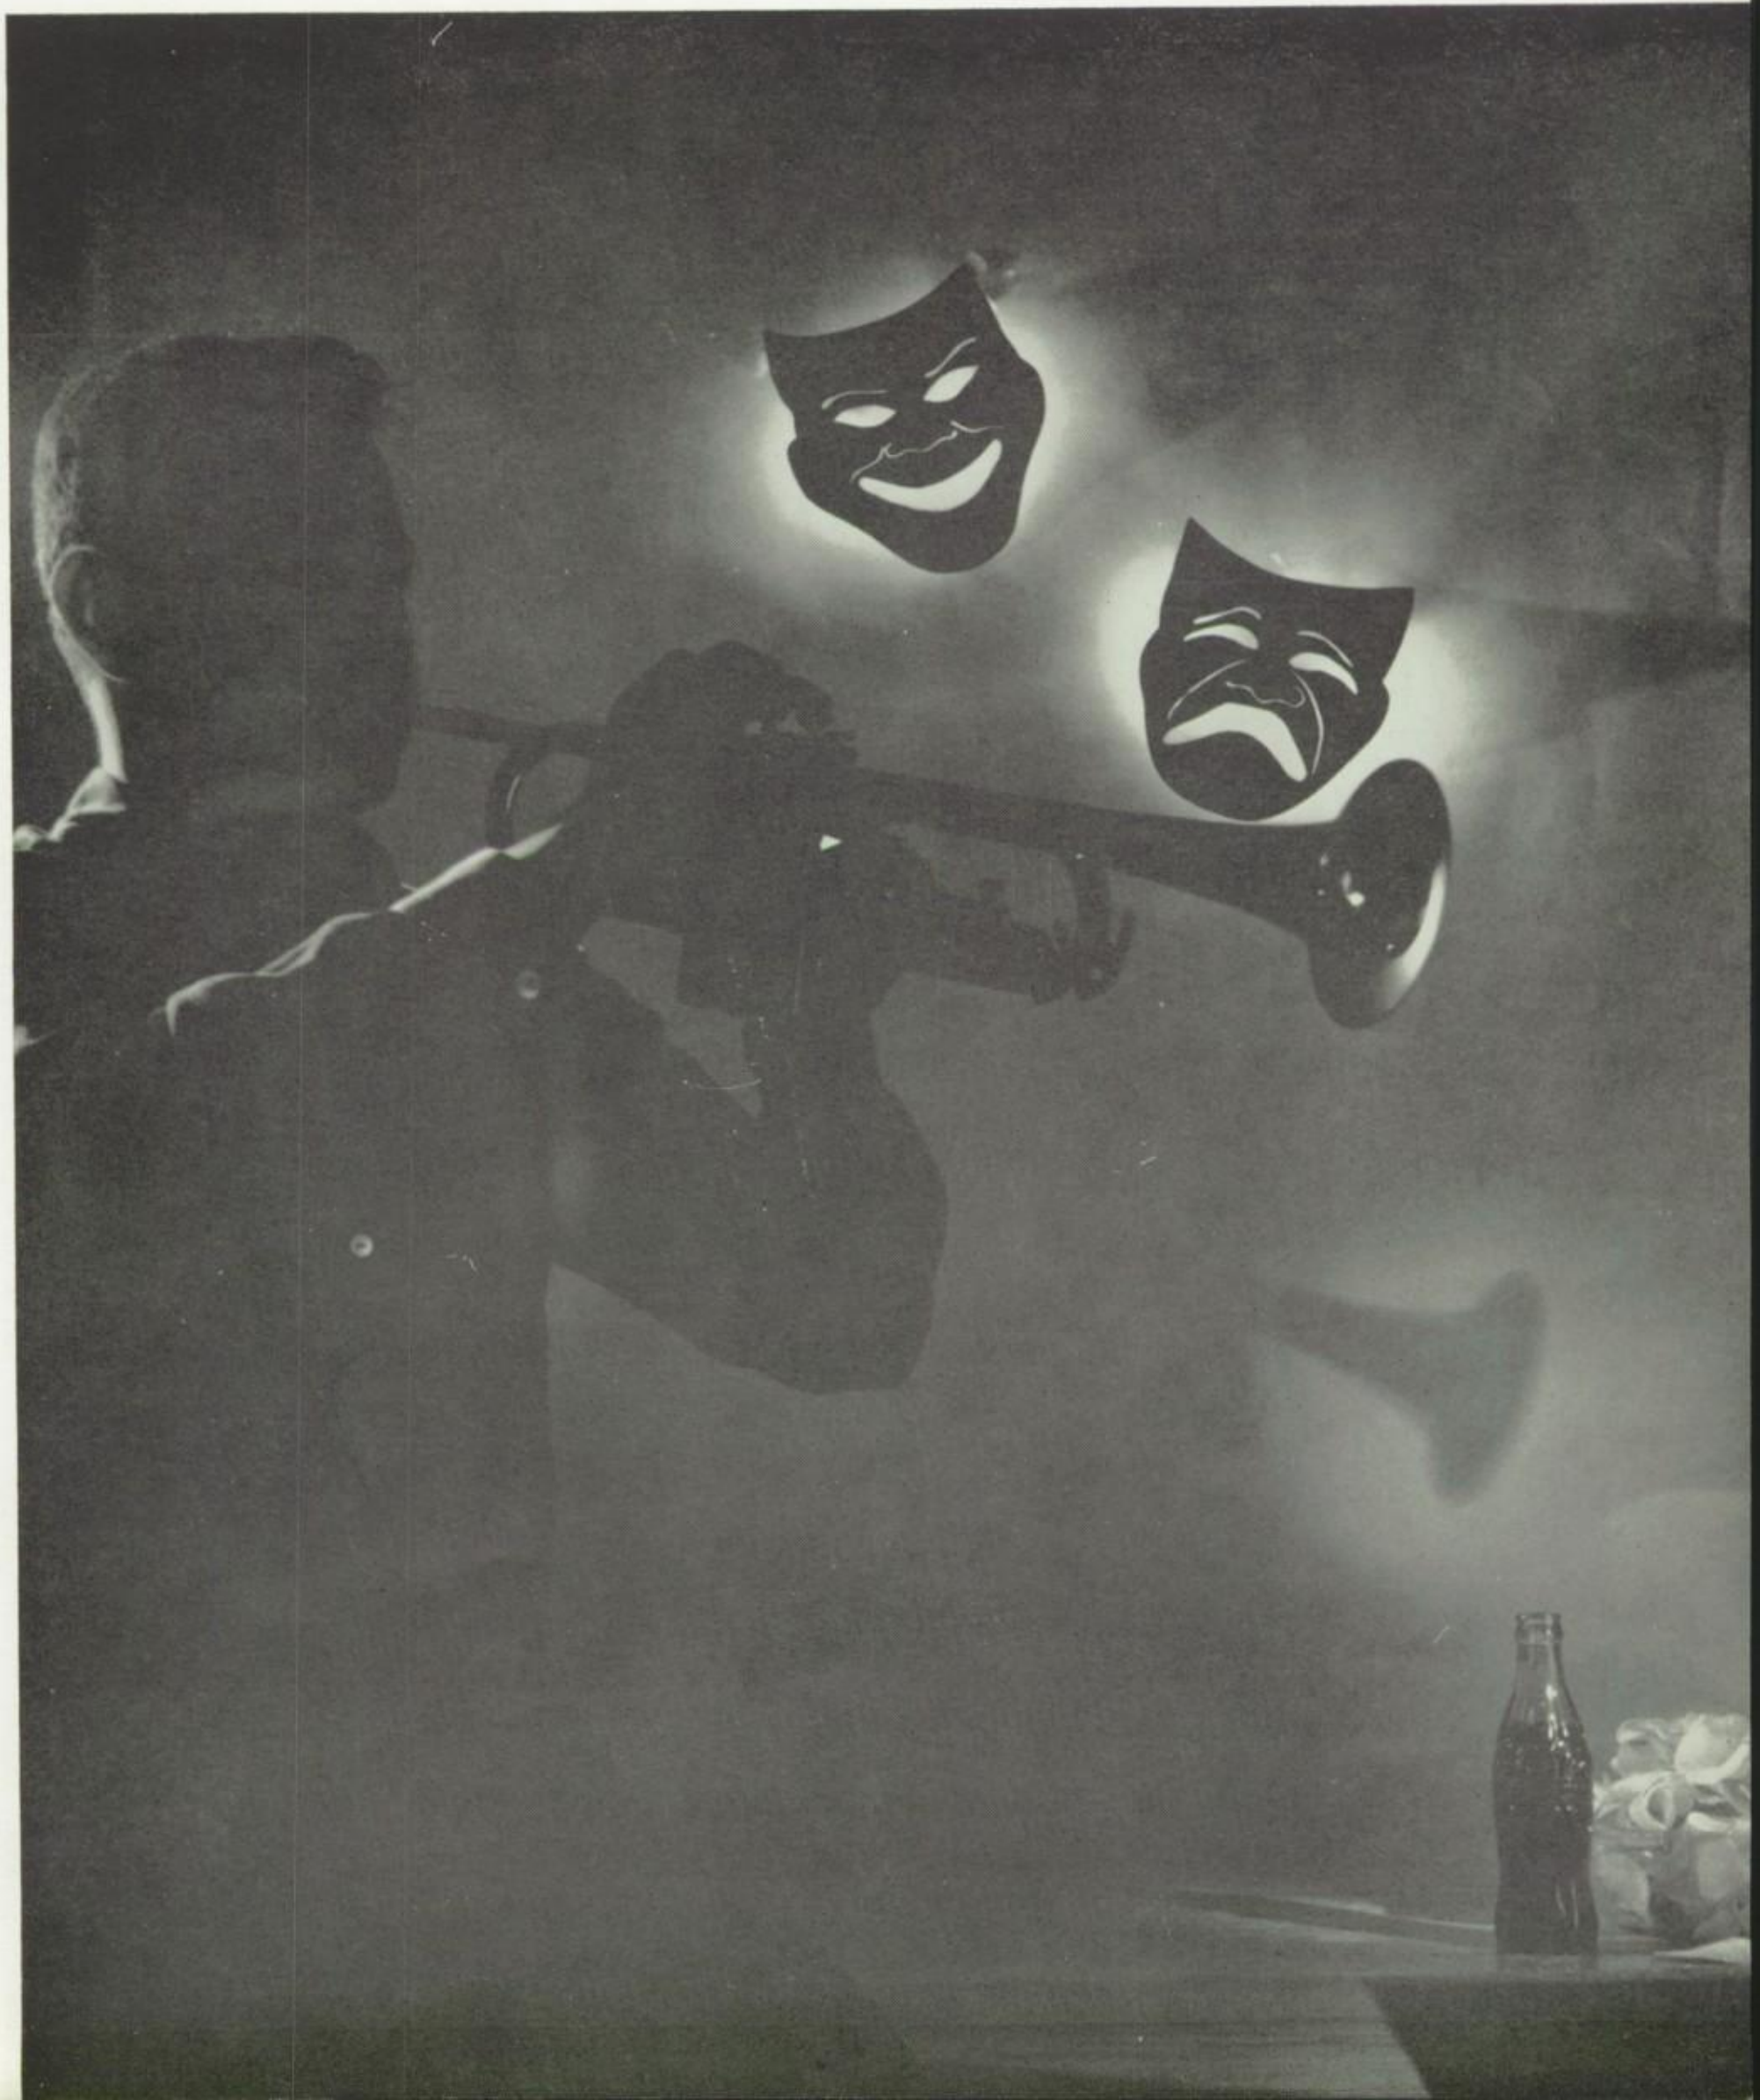
Life! Teenage life scintillating with sparks of ambition and effervescing with bubbles of energy—such is Woodward life. In this hectic but enjoyable existence we hurl ourselves into a merry-go-round of activity and roller-coaster of fun. We swish nets with basketballs, wave blue and white shakers, resound the gyms and stadiums with our cheers. We twist wires in science projects, crop and cut photos in the publications, speak and act in language groups. It is our great pastime TO LEARN.

We experience the joy of living both in our active and inactive moments—basking in the warm study hall breezes towards the end of school, practicing in the marching band under the hot sun or in the cold sleet, engaging in the complex, tense, exciting production of Showcase, knowing that it is our true pleasure TO LIVE.

Radiant with the warmth of life, we enjoy the praise of a project or work well done. Clasping a trophy at awards assembly, saluting the flag at half-time in a game, we realize the spirit, effort, and enthusiasm that went into each. Thus we beam with this our pride TO LOVE.

STUDENTS FIND OUTLETS FOR ENERGY

Some of us are actors, grinning and grimacing, expressing life's comedy and tragedy. Others are musicians, forcing and shaping sweet, soft tones in a trumpet or sax. All sometimes re'ax with a coke and potato chips.



Woodward offers a full schedule of non-athletic extra-curricular activities as an outlet for the vast talents and ideas of her thousands of students. Besides providing proving grounds for experiments in originality, the various organizations also assist their members by furnishing opportunities in group work and in application through practice. The genuine enjoyment in this out-of-class work, however, comes from the fun in actual participation and cooperation. This fun is intangible but ever-present in the interests pursued by Woodward's students. Not only do these activities offer pleasure to those who care to take advantage of them, but they also develop leaders by enlisting their membership in practical fields and by giving useful experience in working with others.

Another facet of Woodward's life is outdoor living

WOODWARDITES LEARN DEMOCRACY AND LAW THROUGH GOVERNMENT

The Woodward Student Council, under the leadership of Mr. William Spreen, is the most important of student activities. Through this organization, students actively participate in the operation and management of school affairs. Wherever possible the principal extends authority to Council in any area of responsibility it is willing to accept and is capable of handling. The Representative Assembly of Council is given the opportunity to decide whether or not it cares to accept a challenge. If it does, then it assumes full responsibility for the task. As long as Council demonstrates its ability to discharge the responsibility, it remains a Council project.

Council's real job is much more than hearing complaints, however. Its real job is to provide leadership and service for the school. Council is active in varied school affairs. This year it sponsored Citizenship Week, Teacher Appreciation Day, and the Homecoming Dance. It also bought a Hi-Fi record player for the lunchroom and is supporting the purchase of an organ for the school in memory of Mr. Winton Moeller.

One innovation in teaching Student Council procedure was the establishment of committee workshops.

Junior High Student Council, under the leadership of Mr. Joseph Horton, is the governing body of the Junior High. As it works along with Senior Council in all school activities, Junior Council affords the younger members of Woodward High a chance to express themselves. While assisting Senior Council, Junior Council gives its members an opportunity to become familiar with the parliamentary procedure which they must acquire to graduate into Senior Council. Not only does Junior Council help develop the personality of the younger students, but it also gives them an experience which is thoroughly enjoyable and truly worth remembering.

The chief objective of the WOODWARD TREASURES staff, under the mentorship of Mr. Charles Warman, is to record faithfully the growth of the school in all of its aspects —academic, extra-curricular, social. All major events and interesting minor ones are included. The student who purchases an annual each year while attending Woodward will have an accurate pictorial record of his high school days. The value of each volume will increase with each passing year.

Besides its primary aim, to put into pictorial form the multitude of memories from this school year, the WOODWARD TREASURES staff has also gained depth in personal development from the experience of working on the yearbook. The greatest moment of the year for each staff member occurs when the completed copy is distributed to the student body at the end of the year.

The "Bulldog Barks" refuels at Rollman's Garden Room to meet their Monday midnight deadline.

The "Bulldog Barks," under the literary advisorship of Mr. David Thurin and business leadership of Mr. Charles Sonnenberg, takes on the job of recording and commenting on the entire parade of scholastic, social, athletic, and other activities in school life from opening day in September until commencement in June. The "Bulldog Barks," which regularly includes the Junior Hi Times, aims to serve Woodward students by producing an outstanding student newspaper, a valuable tool in the training and education of Woodward students. The paper reports on student life accurately and completely, recognizes the accomplishments of outstanding students, promotes good citizenship and sportsmanship, and provides a sounding board for student and faculty opinion. Beside promoting student interest in school projects and activities by literary means, the "Bulldog Barks" also sponsors the annual Royal Shuffle and the newly organized literary contest.

WITH AN ELECTRIC OPENING, "NOW IS THE TIME"

The Ensemble gives the show a rousing opening while singing "Everything's Coming Up Roses."

Campaign leader, Mr. I. M. Boss (Marty Pinales), and Beatnik (Jim Katz) let the press in on the news that John Q. Ordinary is running for the presidency.

Looking out at the chuckling audience, Charlie (Gil Effron) exclaims, "These are my people," and goes on to narrate the story.

FROLICS THROUGH WILD, WONDERFUL POLITICS.

The choir sings "Joobalai" at the Senior Prom where John and Mary announce their engagement.

Being snatched away from his fiance, John travels around the U.S. for his campaign. While stopping in New Orleans the local hepcats dig the Dixieland.

Another stop on the campaign was in Oklahoma. Here a pretty Indian maiden (Karen Brown) sings "Cherokee."

Jane Jones (Carol Stein) advises Mary Smith (Pat Trachsel) that the only way to see John again is to run against him for President. Mary agrees, and, with the financial backing of Miss I. M. Portant (Paula Nebolsky), proceeds with her campaign.

SPICED WITH ROMANTIC HI-JINX, CAMPAIGNING

Bonnie Bryson and Jinx Wray harmonize to "No More" and try to teach John a few things about politiking.

Spending so much time on the campaign, John's party members need baby-sitters to watch over their children.

Ron Katz also aids John by demonstrating the correct way to deliver a speech. "Are Speeches Necessary? Why Not?"

At the T.V. political program, John (Pete Johnson) gives his attention to Cindy Grogg and Carol Stothfang as they dance to "Pin a Rose on Me."

The campaign tour trains pass one another. John and Mary get a welcome glimpse of each other.

AND ENTERTAINING SHOWCASE WOODWARD TALENT.

Jerry Samuels entertains with "Prelude in C-Sharp Minor."

Carolee Wuboling, Laura Kuhn, and Pam Koehl do the "Dance of the Swans" while even the microphone wire keeps in step.

Miss I. M. Portant and Mr. I. M. Boss take turns pointing out the good and bad points of each candidate in their routine of "Strictly off the Record."

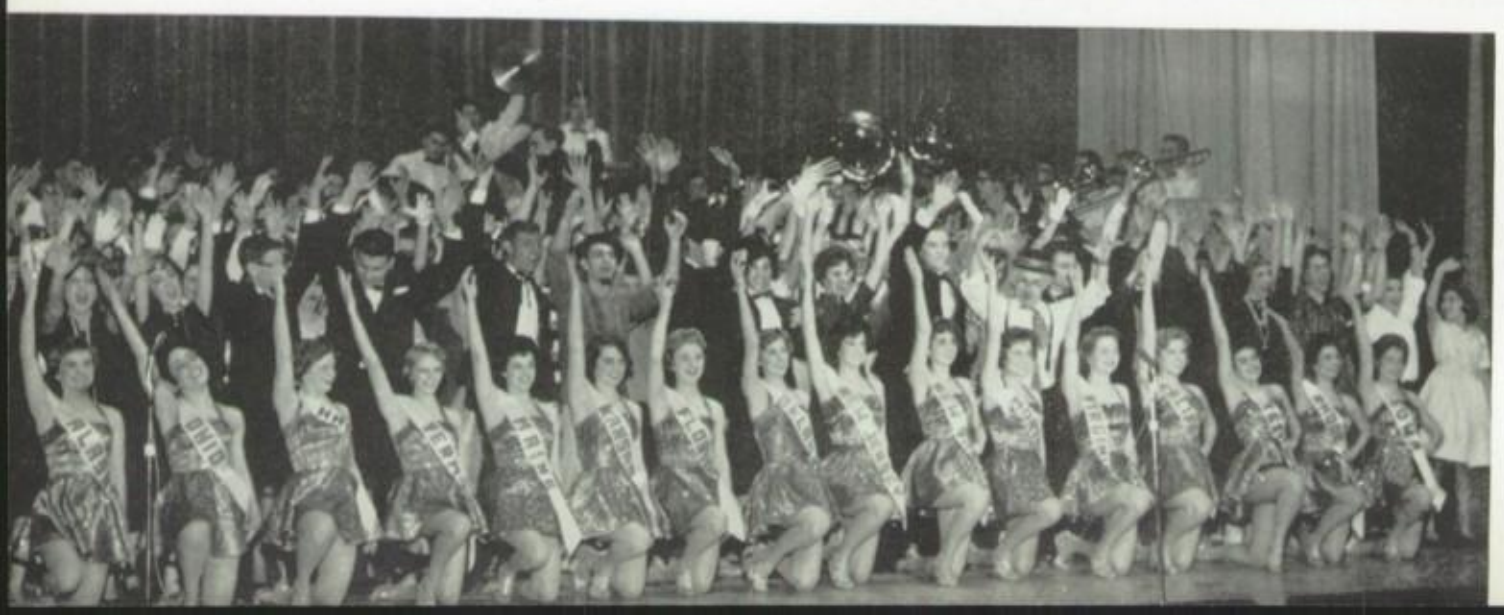
Campaigns can wait; love can't.

The Junior High tap line does the Swing March, getting the campaign rally underway.

LOVE LAYS DOWN THE LAW . . . THE CURTAIN CLOSES

The Modern Dance Chorus strikes a victorious pose as they realize the men are in the lead.

It seems the Supreme Court Judges are always faced with countless decisions. The Faculty Five (Mr. Aug, Mr. Diesenroth, Mr. McSpadden, Mr. Anaple, and Mr. Horton), have decided that both candidates are under age, and neither is the loser.



John marries Mary, Miss I. M. Portant is now Mrs. I. M. Boss, and the cast rejoices at everyone's happiness.

The Woodward High School Band, under the skillful leadership of Mr. Ernest Wolfle, was a large factor in establishing the high spirit which pervaded the Woodward student body throughout the fine football season. Not only did Woodward's Band cause the spirit to soar on the field, but it also stimulated student enthusiasm during pep assemblies. Extra activities of the Senior Band include small units such as brass, woodwind, and drum ensembles. Members of the Woodward Dance Band and many Showcase entertainers are also chosen from the Senior Band.

The Woodward Band salutes its Alma Mater with a "W" formation.

SENIOR CHOIR BLENDS VOLUME AND SOUND FOR MUSICAL BEAUTY

The Woodward Senior Choir, directed by Mr. Robert McSpadden, has again successfully carried on the fine tradition that has made Woodward's choir nationally celebrated. The motto of Senior Choir might be "E Pluribus Unum," one from many, for the harmony produced by the blending together of choir's numerous voices is a beautiful sound. Woodward students are enabled to enjoy the vibrant tones of choir's voices in the Thanksgiving and Christmas assemblies. Choir also sings for Senior graduation at Music Hall, with other vocal groups in the May Festival and the All-City Choir, and in Woodward's annual showcase.

The ultimate desire of every Senior Choir member is to be chosen as one of the thirty-three Ensemble vocalists. Ensemble is a select aggregation of high quality vocal musicians led by Mr. Robert McSpadden. The members are chosen on the basis of their singing talent, musical knowledge, and appreciation of the art. Woodward's Ensemble, besides singing with Senior Choir in school functions, is also highly esteemed in statewide performances.

JUNIOR CHOIR DEVELOPS VOICES FOR THE FUTURE

Junior Choir members, under the leadership of Miss Rita Will, are developing their vocal abilities with the hope of becoming Senior Choir vocalists. The Junior Choir consists of eighth and ninth grade students having a keen interest in music and a genuine desire to achieve artistic and cultural development. Junior Choir participates in the Thanksgiving and Christmas programs and performs on numerous occasions for the junior high students. The Junior Choir prepares these singers for demanding choral work and provides a great deal of enjoyment for its members.

When a family is immured in an attic for years under the constant peril of Nazi tyranny, the welled up emotions of the individuals must find release.

The soothing reassurance of a sympathetic father can calm a disturbed daughter

The fury and madness of Hitler and the destruction that he left in his path are all recorded in the pages of history. But the words of a young girl, Anne Frank, live in the hearts of men. "The Diary of Anne Frank," written in the confines of an attic in Amsterdam, records her struggle with growing up, with her first love, and with her family and others in the attic asylum. She must endure the pessimistic nature of Mr. Dussel and the ever-quarreling Van Daans. Through it all, she has the understanding and guidance of her father, Otto Frank. He is responsible for the publication of the diary, and to him the world owes a debt of gratitude for giving to it the words of peace and hope that are found within the pages.

Climax at the Farnsworth house

Hapless Joe Pendleton is about to begin his earthbound journey as directed by Messenger 7013 and the Heavenly Pilot.

Harry Segall's "Heaven Can Wait" is a fantasy concerning the fate of a rising young boxer who suffers death—but sixty years before Heaven's journals call for him. It is the task, consequently, of The Heavenly Pilot, Mr. Jordan, and Messenger 7013, to replace Joe's spirit in a body. The ensuing scenes find Joe as a banker whose wife is trying to murder him, and later as a fighter again who has just been killed. Matters are complicated by Joe's romance with Bette Logan. Poor Joe's experiences add up to more than one evening's share of hilarity.

Senior Drama Club, under the direction of Mr. Ronald Aug, is one of the busiest clubs at Woodward. If it is not involved in the production of one play, it is practicing for another. This year Drama Club, besides presenting the moving plays "The Diary of Anne Frank" and "Heaven Can Wait," participated in Showcase. Drama Club also competes in the spring in the Hamilton County Thespian One-Act Play Contest. This year the contest, which Woodward has hosted, was held at Mariemont High School. Previous Woodward actors' performances have outshone those of any other contender. And again this year excellent thespians represented Woodward.

JUNIOR DRAMA CLUB MEMBERS LEARN RUDIMENTS OF ACTING

Junior Drama Club, under the supervision of Mr. John Anaple, offers experience in the dramatic field that develops the talents of its members. The club cultivates in its younger members the interest in dramaturgy that is necessary for dramatic success. Each drama club meeting is highlighted by monologues, skits, readings, pantomimes, and special acts. Drama Club's main performances of the season were given at the Thanksgiving and Christmas assemblies and in Showcase.

Everybody likes to get in the act in Junior Drama Club. Mr. Anaple seems to be warning of the evils of upstaging . . . without results.

LANGUAGE CLUBS BREAK CULTURE BARRIER BY STUDYING CUSTOMS

In this era of exploding rockets and international dissension,, the role of foreign languages as a means of effective communication has assumed a tremendous importance.

To learn all of the customs and ideas of a foreign country in class is almost impossible. Thus, the language clubs. There is one club for each language—French, Latin, Spanish, and German. Through films, slides, recordings, speakers, foreign magazines, and books, the language club members become beter acquainted with foreign countries and their ways.

Woodward participates in a system which allows Woodward students to be exchanged with Mexican boys and girls. Woodward sends students to schools in Mexico, and in turn, they send students to Woodward. In this way, each country learns to understand the other; and only in this way can a rapprochement of foreign countries be made possible in this world of strife today.

The main purpose of the Woodward Council on World Affairs is to bring together those students who have a common interest in the events occurring in the modern world. Before being accepted into the Council on World Affairs, a student must have a better than average grade in social studies and a genuine interest in world affairs. The World Affairs Council, under the leadership of Mr. Frances Hamel, has on numerous occasions brought in speakers to discuss world affairs. One speaker, the counselor to the Japanese Embassy, spoke to the school in an assembly on the Cultural Pulse of Japan.

El Circulo de Espanol ayuda los estudiantes apredar mas de la lengua y los costumbres de Espana.

For those of you who "no comprenden espanol," this lovely sentence means that Spanish Club, under the leadership of Miss Maria Keszler, helps its members learn of the Spanish language and customs. Spanish Club enriches its members' personalities by teaching them of the Spanish-speaking people and their ideas. Through an interesting program of Spanish-speaking guests, Spanish dinners, and fiestas, the Circulo Espanol establishes a closer rapport between its members and Spain.

"Fifty million Frenchmen can't be wrong," and neither can the student who becomes a member of French Club. The wonderful world of the Frenchman is revealed in this club's activities. French Club, under the guidance of Mrs. Elizabeth Parker and Mr. Thomas D'Amico, is designed to broaden its members' knowledge of the French customs and ways. The highlights of the club's activity calendar are "Un petit dejeuner" and the Christmas language club festivities. The club meetings are livened by guest speakers, French plays, movies, games, and music. To top off the year's activities, French Club holds its annual picnic in June.

"The Spirit of the Times" is the English translation of "Der Zietgest," the name of Woodward's German Club. Under the leadership of Mr. Curtis Sanger, German Club attempts to reach a better understanding of the German language and people. Besides the learning of the language and the economical and cultural ways of life in Germany, these German scholars take an active part in the language club Christmas party and hold a German breakfast and picnic. Members of the club are so interested that they take turns having the meetings at their homes in the evening.

Under the supervision of Miss Elizabeth Rottenburger, Woodward's Latin Club, "Studiosi Optimi," tries to promote a greater interest in the Latin language and culture. Its monthly meetings are highlighted by games, skits, and movies concerning old Rome and its langauge. In addition, the club participates annually in the language club Christmas party and is affiliated with the Junior Classical League, a national organization for students of Latin and Greek.

The Senior Art Club under the leadership of Mr. David Redfern promotes and encourages interest in the appreciation of the visual arts, and assists in certain school projects involving painting and design. The Senior Art Club delves into the depths of the artistic world while using its ability to aid the school. Art Club's main projects have been the production of Showcase scenery, the display of an art exhibit for the junior high orientation, and the decoration of the halls at Christmas.

ART LEAGUE PROPOSES WOODWARD BEAUTIFICATION

It is through Art League, under the supervision of Mr. William Marshall, that Woodward High School has become a "thing of beauty." In the past, Art League has added shrubbery to the grounds, beautified the statue of William Woodward, decorated the halls at Christmas time, and added pictures for Woodward's halls. This year the Art League bought more trees for the grounds. They sponsored an open house to raise funds. Art League has many members, few general meetings, but an important role in the school. Art League has planned and purchased those things which have made Woodward one of the most beautiful high schools in Cincinnati.

BUSINESS CLUB HAS FUTURE SECRETARIES

Typewriters pounding and pencils zipping off shorthand are common sounds and sights in Woodward's Business Club. Now in its third year, and under the advisorship of Miss Rosella Honekamp, the Business Club offers girls interested in the business field a chance to better understand the intricacies of their future mode of living. The members visit various industries, factories, and companies to view "big business" in action. Guest speakers visit the club to discuss other aspects of business. Business Club develops a knowledge of the business world, helps each member grow in personality and leadership, and renders service to the school.

Key Business Club members plan busy year's program.

Now in its second year of existence, under the guidance of Mrs. Helen Bowers, Merchandising Club teaches its members the principles and techniques of retail merchandising. This club, made up entirely of students in Mrs. Bowers' merchandising classes, meets on class time. The club often has group tours of local business firms or has local merchants address the membership. Combining practice with theory is the main factor in Merchandising Club's success.

Future Teachers of America, directed by Miss Ruby Comptom, is a club in which the members are enabled to receive an early acquaintance with the teaching profession. Development of professional attitudes is accomplished by allowing the members to work with children in situations where they may learn to realize the potential satisfaction of teaching. This year a new plan was instituted allowing members to actually go into elementary school classes and teach on a class period. The Future Teachers Club members will definitely have a heard start over others desiring to become teachers.

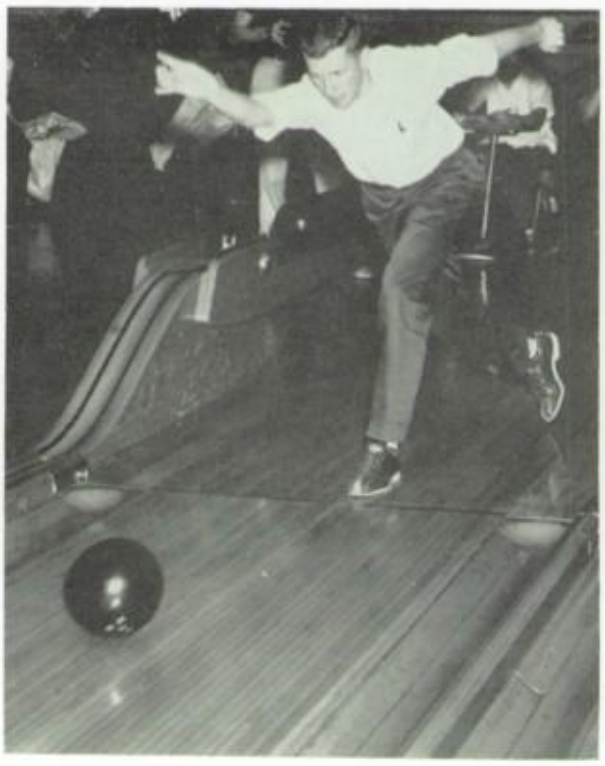
SPORTS SPOTLIGHTED BY SUPERIOR FOOTBALL, G.A.A., AND SPIRITED SPECTATORS



The Woodwardite is not completely the student. He finds time to have fun, TO PLAY and enjoy life. Sports, either for personal entertainment or for the honor of the school, are just as important to him as the English, chemistry, and arithmetic books he carries from class to class. In intramural and G.A.A. activities the student discovers what it is like to be the athlete too. Soon he learns that TO LIVE in an academic atmosphere gym classes provide a healthy balance to the school schedule. A combination of mental work and physical exercise produces the foundation on which is built the character of each Woodward student. The sports spirit—the desire to excel—becomes a vital force in his life. Playing or cheering for that Blue and White team gives the student what nothing else can—the enthusiastic will TO WIN both in sports and in life.

After 40 years . . . the championship

AFTER FORTY YEARS... CHAMPIONS... WOODWARD COULD NOT BE PROUDER

Precious pass proves elusive for Wally Bohl in Walnut Hills game.

After 40 years—a championship. It's been an uphill fight all the way, but the Woodward Bulldogs have finally found the place where they belong—the top of the Public High School League. With unparalleled school spirit backing them, the glorious Blue and White boys sailed through the season on a crest of a 5-1 P.H.S.L. record to make Woodward the happiest and proudest school in town.

An undefeatable Wyoming team set Woodward off on the wrong foot with a 8-0 loss. However, the Bulldogs had just begun to flex their muscles. The so-called Norwood jinx became a thing of the past when a score of 50-16 caused all eyes to look again and reappraise Woodward's potential. Another non-league defeat had to be taken on the chin by our Bulldogs with a 6-0 loss to Xavier before they could sink their teeth in P.H.S.L. meat.

Central stepped up as the first victim. The excited students in our crowded Woodward stands remained on tiptoe for the last 55 seconds of the game as Central fumbled and Al Johnson recovered on our 40-yard line. With the beautiful running and sidestepping of Eddie Southard the team edged down to the two-yard line. There Azell Jackson plunged into TD territory to tie the score 6-6 with only precious seconds left. In came Bobby Taylor, up went the kick, over went the ball and Woodward had won its first league contest, 7-6.

Western Hills, next on the list, bowed 24-14. Both our offensive and defensive lines had to show what they were made of, and, led by co-captains Mike Cohen and "Porky" Kingsbury, they did. Wally Bohl scored twice, once on an 80-yard run. One last heartbreaker in the form of an 8-7 loss to the Big Reds of Hughes proved to be Woodward's last look at the losing end of a game. With a beautifully faked field goal attempt by Taylor, Bruce Fister shot a pass to Jackson and then took the ball himself for the score. The extra point was good but not quite enough for this contest.

Our last four games were simply matters of taking the laurels. More TD runs by Bohl and Jackson brought a 16-8 victory over the Walnut Hills' Eagles. Mariemont's Warriors bit the dust the following week as our Blue and White, led by tri-captains Mike Cohen, Bob Nebolsky, and Paul Woodward, surged to a 21-13 win in a fourth quarter comeback.

A co-championship was assured by spanking the Senators of Taft, 20-6. Ben Cohen, Jim Pearce and Bob Stumpf opened gaps for Jerry Collins and cohorts in the speedy backfield, while Dave Mahan, Alden Mosher, Ron Durham, John Irwin, and Jim Heidenreich led the defensive line.

And on a sunny Friday afternoon in November, backed by that same enthusiastic school spirit that inaugurated the season, coaches Jim Dougherty and Jack Cambell guided the team to victory over Withrow, 16-6—and the first crown since 1919.

RESERVE FOLLOWS WINNING SPIRIT WITH CO-VICTORY

Coaches Weiler and Diersing put much thought and planning into each precision play.

To top off a terrific football year at Woodward, Mr. Nick Weiler and Mr. George Diersing's Reserve team captured a co-championship with Withrow. These junior Bulldogs commenced the season with a rousing defeat of their future co-champions, Withrow, 20 to 8. Fullback Bill Gillman lit the first firecracker as he romped 70 yards for a touchdown on the opening kickoff. John Labovitch, junior halfback, scored two TD's on runs of 18 and 30 yards and two extra points.

The Blue and White cyclone next hit Taft and left them in a dizzy wonder, 20-0. Labovitch was again the big gun with two more touchdowns and two extra points. The alert Bulldog squad was quick to take advantage of the many Taft mistakes. Steve Hendricks blocked a poor punt in the Taft end zone which Bob Richardson promptly fell on for six points. The Western Hills Mustangs were the next Woodward victims. After a scoreless first half, halfback Mickey Cohen took a handoff from quarterback Pete Johnson and scrambled twenty yards for a touchdown and then added two extra points. Bill Neff later scored on a pass interception. The immovable offensive line of Steve McCollum, Neff, George Peterson, Richardson, Gary Scalf, Bill Studt, and Jim Vockell frustrated the Mustangs' defensive chargers. Dave Oakley and other fine backfielders handled running duties. The defensive wall was comprised of Jack Fielden, Hendricks, Errol King, John Mascari, and Walter Vertner.

The Reserves met their match in Hughes and were humbled, 34-0. This defeat could have proven disastrous had it not been for a Woodward protest. Hughes swept the game with the services of a varsity veteran. The protest was decided in favor of Woodward. Then, after suffering a 22-8 shellacking from Central, the squad rebounded with a 20-6 rout of hapless Walnut Hills. This victory gave the Blue and White a 5-1 record—good enough for a share in the PHSL title.

No luck at all, however, smiled on the hard-working Woodward Bullpups of Coach Stan Castelli. The team finished fifth with a season's record of two wins and four losses, ahead of Cutter and Walnut Hills. Too many fumbles, too little blocking on plays around end, too many bad breaks, but plenty of speed and determination—these were characteristics of Woodward's youngest gridders, fine prospects for future teams.

TIGHT THRILLERS TYPIFY CAGERS' CONTESTS

Coach Sid Friedman's varsity basektball squad completed the season with a league record of 7-5 and a total record of 12-6. Mere numbers, however, cannot begin to describe the exciting plays and sportsmanship which our Buldogs displayed on the court.

The hoopsters commenced the season with a bad tip off against Elder. Poor defense and an unsteady hand at he free throw line made the difference. But even in this first non-league game, two fireballs of energy, Bob Neumann and Don Elmore, were exhibiting Woodward's authority with the basketball.

Then came the storm and the Bulldogs clamped on a winning streak of four straight games. Utilizing a strangling full court press, captain Bob Neumann and his cohorts defeated Western and Wyoming with Neumann scoring 25 points in the former game. Two unnerving one point victories were witnessed by overflow crowds. In the Princeton game, Elmore hit on a 17-foot jump shot with only ten seconds remaining to wrap up the contest. Joe Gutzwiller garnered 15 points while Bobby Taylor added 13. Again, at the Withrow contest, Dave Winchell edged the team to victory with two foul shots with ten seconds to go. Elmore contributed 20 markers.

The Knights of Central outscored and out-rebounded the Bulldogs for a disheartening defeat and a shove from first place position. In another loss Winchell led our boys against the Walnut Hills Eagles with 22 points.

Norwood, Hughes, and Taft all succumbed to Woodward's superior ball handling and stubborn defense. The

The 1960 Reserve Basketball team took it on the chin this year but went down fighting. Coached by John Mayberry, the boys produced a sad record of one win and eleven losses in PHSL competition and one win, seventeen losses for the season's total. The squad's single victory was against he Withrow Tigers. Leading the Blue and White to their only win was Dwight Cottier with 15 points. Center Jim Pearce and guard Tony Apostolides each chipped in with 6 points. It was in the second half that Woodward opened up for a comeback to leave Withrow in their dust, 38-32.

Other contests found the reserves in unfavorable light against some tough competitors. The Bulldogs whipped up a good show against Hughes, but the Big Reds had too many Taft almost succumbed to the cagers in a 29-26 decision. Central's Knights were the Bulldogs' most overwhelming opponent, scoring the highest number of points against our hoopsters.

Under the leadership of Coach Nick Weiler the junior Bullpups managed four wins in fourteen games. In their first triumph the junior high quintet clawed the Withrow Tigers 25-23. Ron Kellerman and Dave Allen neted six points each. Tom Dyer also added valuable markers. Cutter was Woodward's next victim in a 30-32 battle. Withrow fell 29-24, and then the junior high team gave its hardest licking to Shroder 39-29. Eastern and Ach proved to be the team's toughest opposition, yielding few baskets and scoring often. The Bullpups' co-captains were Bill Wiche and Dave Allen.

Both squads were hampered with lack of height but gained valuable experience.

MERMEN DIVE INTO STIFF COMPETITION; OUTSWIM MANY

SEASON'S RECORD

The swim team earned fourth place honors at the end of the three PHSL meets with a total of 65 points.

In district competition the swimmers took fourth place in southwestern Ohio with fourteen points.

The team placed eleventh in the state meet with eight and a half points among thirty-five schools competing.

The junior high swim team took second place in the PHSL and third place in the district contest.

Gerry Sapadin shoots off on another record-breaking race.

Woodward mermen plunged into this swim season minus several big guns including Orrin Nordstrom. However, with talent like Jeff Deutsch, Charlie Goldsmith, Jim Hawkins, Ulf Sawert, Alden Mosher, and Andy Grant, Coach Melvin Russell's team managed a good showing for Woodward. This year's star record-smasher and candidate for All-American was Gerry Sapadin. He now holds the district record for the fifty-yard freestyle (23.4 seconds) and the pool record for the hundred yard freestyle (53.6 seconds). Until the state meet, he was undefeated. He scored all of Woodward's points at state, finishing second and fourth in the fifty and hundred yard freestyle races respectively. Tenth grader Jim Hawkins placed fifth in the PHSL 200-yard freestyle and shows much promise for next year. The freestyle relay team of Charlie Goldsmith, Jeff Deutsch, Jim Hawkins, and Alden Mosher finished fifth in the district. In junior high competition Don MacPherson holds the city and district record for the fifty-yard butterfly with a time of 29.9 seconds. The record for the one hundred yard individual medley is held by Fred Bernstein, 1:18.3 minutes. Tom Heilbrun is also city champ for the fifty-yard freestyle with 26.0 seconds. This year's junior high and sophomore swimmers are powerhouse potential for future teams.

A WELL-DISCIPLINED BODY IS THE HIGHLY PRIZED GOAL OF EACH GYM TEAM MEMBER

Varsity and reserve gym teams again copped second place in PHSL standings. Trained and encouraged by Coach Stanley Castelli, both teams defeated Western Hills and Walnut Hills and were in turn downed by Central, the traditional powerhouse.

Charles Schmitt took two first places on his specialty, the rings, and Dick Calvin rated tops on the long horse. Bob Malloy was judged best all-around athlete of the third meet scoring 122.2 individual points. Many third places were garnered by the skillful gymnasts. Tom Otto on horizontal bars and all-around, Bruce Fister on free-exercise and side horse, tumbler Bob Nebolsky, long horseman Wally Bohl, all-around man Doug Sprigg, and free-exerciser Jerry Bray all displayed fine form. Other boys who earned team points were Julius Barkhau on the horizontal bars and ropes, Jim Dempsey on the side horse, Paul Crossen in tumbling, and Ken Quan on the rings.

The reserves placed Jack Mann and Herb Margolis in top positions on the rope climb and the side horse respectively.

SEASON'S RECORD

In their first PHSL meet, the varsity gym team finished second: Central, 71; Woodward, 40; Western Hills, 27, and Walnut Hills, 5. Reserve placed first.

The standings remained the same in both the second and third meets for varsity, while reserve slipped from first to second behind Central and in front of Western Hills and Walnut Hills.

In both Invitationals, the varsity and reserve teams took Western and Walnut but bowed to Central.

CROSS COUNTRY DEMANDS ABILITY, CONDITIONING, AND TENACIOUS DESIRE

Stiff competition from Withrow, Hughes, and Taft brought Coach John Mayberry's varsity cross country team up to the finish line in fourth position for this year's city competition with a total of 323 points. Ulf Sawert, sole returning varsity squad member, led the team in placing fifth, fourth and eighth respectively in the three two-mile city meets with a best time of 10:41.

Junior Doug Lobser showed much promise by placing second on the Woodward cross country totem pole with an eighth place in district competition. Other hard running harriers included Howard Berliner, Frank Bork, Mike Devanny, Bill Duning, Don Elmore (placed 8th in district), Mike Hayes, Jim Luken, and Harry Sterling.

SEASON'S RECORD

In their first city meet, Woodward's varsity cross country team finished fifth in a field of seven with 106 points.

The second meet resulted in another fifth place with a total of 126 points.

In the final meet Woodward finished fourth with 91 points.

Over hill and dale comes the Reserve Cross Country Team finishing in third place with a total of 262 points.

TENNIS TAKES TIMING AND TALENT

Woodward netmen took to the practice courts for the 1960 campaign led by Mike Hesse and Charlie Goldsmith, both two-year lettermen. A spirited group of newcomers raised Coach Smith's hopes of improving last year's fourth place league finish.

Goldsmith garnered the first singles position while Hesse gained the second singles spot. Paul Richman, Ken Hyams, Frank Slesnick, Jerry Samuels, Mike Straus, and Ivan Kaufman vied for the third singles, first doubles, and second doubles positions.

A rough practice schedule and a formidable lineup of opponents provided the netters with a challenging campaign.

The returnees, Lee White, Howard Berliner, Larry Yates, Bill French, and Ulf Sawert along with sophomores Bobby Taylor and Azell Jackson formed the nucleus of a potentially fine team. Competition was keen for positions on the team and spirit was at a new high.

DIAMOND HOPEFULS SLIDE SAFELY HOME ON HITS, PITCHES

Although hampered by the coldest weather in Cincinnati's history, the Bulldogs went full steam ahead in their conditioning program, and experienced tips as well as fundamentals were constantly stressed by Coach Bob Von Holle.

This year's diamond hopefuls appeared to be an eager and spirited group. They were led by several returning lettermen. Bob Stumpf, catcher, and "the big three"—Wally Bohl, Ron Young and Eddie Southard, top-notch pitchers—were seasoned veterans. The outfield appeared to be a strong part of the team. All of last year's starting outfield returned to the squad, including Randy Stertmeyer, Barry Fielman and Jim Hengle. Except for shortstop Al Weisbrod, the Bulldogs lost their whole infield through graduation. Many new prospects vied for infield positions. They included Mitch Goldberg, Jerry Collins, Phil Brown, Bob Richardson, Steve Hendricks and Al Spencer. With good student support the Bulldogs seemed ready for a very prosperous season.

FORM, PATIENCE, STAMINA— ALL ESSENTIAL IN GOLF

The Woodward golf team began its season with only one returning letterman, Rick Pressler. Lost were Dick Spatta, John Hill, and John Tinker, who combined with Pressler to lead the links team to a third place league finish last year.

With a year's experience Pressler provided some exciting individual competition with the other top high school golfers of the city. The remainder of the squad was formed from new prospects and non-letter winners of last year's team.

Coach Montgomery faced a bleak rebuilding year with his crew, but the squad's experience will strengthen the future teams.

One of the largest Woodward organizations, the Senior Girls' Athletic Association, provides every Woodward girl with the chance to participate in healthy and exhilarating sports. The many organized sports range from the highly competitive—hockey, basketball, softball, and volleyball—to the less strenuous—archery, golf, and bowling. The G.A.A. has the further responsibility of teaching good sportsmanship and emphasizing fair play.

Crashing sticks . . . excited yells . . . pounding feet—these meant the hockey season was under way again. Bleak and sunny days alike, many girls turned out to practice the rudiments of hockey. Hours of practice were required to perfect dribbling, checking, and guarding techniques. Although field hockey is a rugged game, the G.A.A. girls enjoyed it thoroughly and demonstrated exceptional skill at Playday. This sport's success was largely due to the encouragement and helpful suggestions of advisor Miss Sprague and manager Kathy Goertemiller.

Starting a rip-roaring 1960 season, members of the basketball teams sparked new interest in this fast-moving sport. Excitement ran high as the teams vied for the honor of first place. Of course, there was much speculation as to which team would be chosen to attend the public high school Basketball Playday. Such honor teams are chosen for their sportsmanship, leadership, and skill. This popular G.A.A. sport enjoyed a successful season.

Enthusiastic Woodward girls have advanced the game of volleyball from a haphazard slapping of palms on ball to a sport of skill. Competition in the G.A.A. league is difficult and produces strong team spirit. At the end of the regular season an honor team is selected from the best players on all the teams. Selection is based on sportsmanship as well as ability. A highlight of the season is a game between the honor team and faculty women. This game has promoted mutual admiration and friendly rivalry.

Archery requires a keen eye and a steady hand. This G.A.A. sport, under the leadership of Linda Marsh and through the enthusiasm of its participants, is rapidly growing in popularity. The main attraction of the archery season is the Spring Sports Playday, which brings together the top teams from all public high schools to compete at Lunken Airport Playfield. However, this sport is exciting even when not practiced competitively. The spring of the bow, the twang of the string, and the zing of the arrow have, indeed, attracted sportsmen since ancient times.

TAKE SKILL, MIX WITH FUN FOR SOFTBALL

SENIOR SOFTBALL

Pat Addison, Dot Braunstein, Jackie Matthews, Barb Meadows, Cherie Moskowitz, Janet Neat, Joan Neat, and Linda Steider.

Softball demands more individual skill than other G.A.A. team sports. Accuracy, agility, quick thinking, and, as always, good sportsmanship are the qualities that put a player on the first team. Rewarding players who have worked hard is the special Spring Sports Playday, where the best teams of all public high schools vie for honors.

WOODWARD'S POOL GRACED BY MERMAIDS

POLLYWOGS

Members: Rickie Abrams, Eeve Arkush, Peggy Biven, Jan Blersch, Lynne Calvin, Judy De Vaud, Connie Eichorst, Pat Ewing, Peg Fahy, Barb Fallon, Margaret Freeman, Judy Friedman, Marsha Goldsmith, Gail Greenberg, Carol Hall, Joanne Honschopp, Karen Horton, Ann Hoshaw, Diane Jenks, Carolyn Kendle, Nancy Kleine, Vivian Leslie, Barb Levy, Diane Macintyre, Ann McConnell, Toni Meyer, Carol Morton, Margaret Myers, Lois Porter, Diane Purdy, Pat Rauch, Tillie Richter, Mary Robinson, Barb Savery, Judy Saxton, Barb Schatz, Sue Steinau, Babe Sterbling, Mary Stuebing, Ellen Taylor, Arlene Tessel, Pat Tewell, Mary Kay Thomas, Donna Vandenberg, Carolyn Wettig, and Jinx Wray.

The fifty-four girls in Pollywogs are enthusiastic swimmers. Eligibility for membership in this synchronized swim group depends on a single requirement, that the candidate be able to perform certain difficult strokes for exhibition swimming. Immediately after the club roster was determined last fall, practice began for the spring water show. The success of this enterprise rewards the patience and coaching of Miss Wescott and the ability of the members.

MODERN DANCE IS INSPIRED INTERPRETATION

MODERN DANCE

Members: Yvonne Bally, Carol Benson, Neggie Berg, Jan Blersch, Sue Bollinger, Billie Brewer, Lois Brewer, Lynne Calvin, Sandi Dassinger, Janice Dine, Marlene Fink, Margie Freeman, Ester Guttman, Sherry Hailstone, Pat Hauss, Karen Horton, Ann Hoshaw, Sherry Kaplan, Merdle Koffler, Susie Nickols, Brucelle Ohe, Mary Robinson, Judy Routzong, Leslie Rubin, Renee Schwartz, Bonnie Schafer, Jane Shapiro, Bobbie Siebler, Deana Stabner, Cheryl Sterbling, Sue Thomas, Mary Kay Thomas, Judy Turner, Donna Vandenberg, Joan Wainer, and Reba Wood.

Modern Dance is one of the most active of Woodward clubs. Its members are selected for their ability to perform required skills with rhythm, poise, and grace. Ably led by advisor Mrs. Keller and president Donna Vandenberg, the thirty-six girls in Modern Dance practice increasingly difficult steps. Their pains are rewarded by participation in the city-wide Dance Symposium. A highlight of the year was their annual Mother-Daughter Tea. The girls performed in one of the delightful acts of the Showcase.

"Fore" (actually three) golfers threatened the links with stray drives and flying sand on this year's golf team. Indicating either lack of interest or skill, Woodward girls shied away from this reconditioner of Presidents. Members were slightly teed off about the poor turnout but chipped in to produce a better than par season.

JUNIOR G.A.A. BEGINS GIRLS' ATHLETIC FUN

JUNIOR HIGH G.A.A. BOARD
Seated: Bobbie Klein, Secretary; Marilyn Zwerin, Vice-President; Cherry Waite, President; Mrs. Koehl, and Nancy Watkins, Treasurer. Standing: Marian Pesout, Publicity Chairman; Eileen Zwerin, Historian; and Jeannie Jackson, Guppy President.

Many junior high activities center about the active hub of Jr. G.A.A., directed by Mrs. Koehl. This extra-curricular club is open to any girl in the seventh, eighth, or ninth grades. Eighteen points earns one a letter; nine points are required for a chevron. These points are acquired by joining in the sports offered by a diverse athletic program. Objectives of the association are to stimulate interest in athletic activities, develop good sportsmanship, and offer fun in wholesome activities.

Guppies the junior high edition of the swim set at Woodward, began its activities early in the year. Members of this organization met faithfully to share tricks and fun while enjoying a vigorous and refreshing sport. Fundamentals of water ballet are taught and practiced to perfect skills needed to join Pollywogs in senior high—the aim of most Guppies. This club, started in 1959, is already a popular activity with enthusiastic splashers.

DIPS, DIVES ARE GUPPY'S DELIGHTS

GUPPIES
Sharon Fink, Ellen Fogel, Ellen Freidman, Sharon Graller, Sue Hassel, Sue Hill, Jeannie Jackson (president), Pamela Koehl (secretary-treasurer), Laura Kuhn, Penny Levine, Carol Levine, Leatrice Levine, Dennie Linder, Sherry Metts, Peggy Morton, Diane Rosenfield, Fran Schreiberg, Joan Siegel, Sharon Skurow, Susan Spiegel, Diane Stone, Carollee Wabbolding, Cherry Waite, Eileen Zwerin and Marilyn Zwerin.

BASKETBALL BOOSTS BOUNCE

JUNIOR BASKETBALL
Joann Deskins, Gail Doughman, Ellen Heines, Helen Hirsch, Anita McAninch, and Carole Odenhs.

Basketball is more a give than a take proposition. Although there is a certain amount of talent involved in netting a basket, Woodward girls play the sport simply because it is fun. Junior high girls like the fast-moving contest and enjoy learning team work and cooperation. There may be no Neumann or Robertson on the court to continually dunk or swish that ball, but for these team members, the exercise and relaxation obtained from basketball is satisfaction enough.

The bat and ball seem to attract more girls to softball than other of the spring sports. With spring's crisp, inviting days, team members substitute for pushing a pencil swinging a stick and slamming a double bagger. Teams are organized by the softball manager, and the individual teams play against each other in a closely contested tournament.

Softball's climax is the city-wide softball playday. The junior leaguers practice hard to make this day count for Woodward.

SOCCER IS A SPUNKY SPORT

JUNIOR HIGH SOCCER

Barb Brown, Ellen Friedman, Sharon Graller, Jenny Hall, Denni Linder, Debbie Matthews, Beverly Miller, Joan Siegel, Diane Stone (captain), Rhoda Tessel, and Donna Wernick (captain).

Dribble, pass, kick and block—sounds like a heterogeneous athletic conglomeration, but the words all belong to the same wild, speedy sport of junior high soccer. This game is a rough one, yet these rambunctious young girls love it because of the outlet it affords for excess energy. The team warns prospective members, however, that tender shins will find no peace in soccer.

A net that always seems to be getting in the way, and two red palms—these are the inevitable trademarks of volleyball. Actually, team coordination is the necessary and profitable factor in this hectic sport. Once the ball is airborne, teamwork determines the outcome of the game.

The sport is played in the gym during January and February. Every member is active and happy—red palms and all.

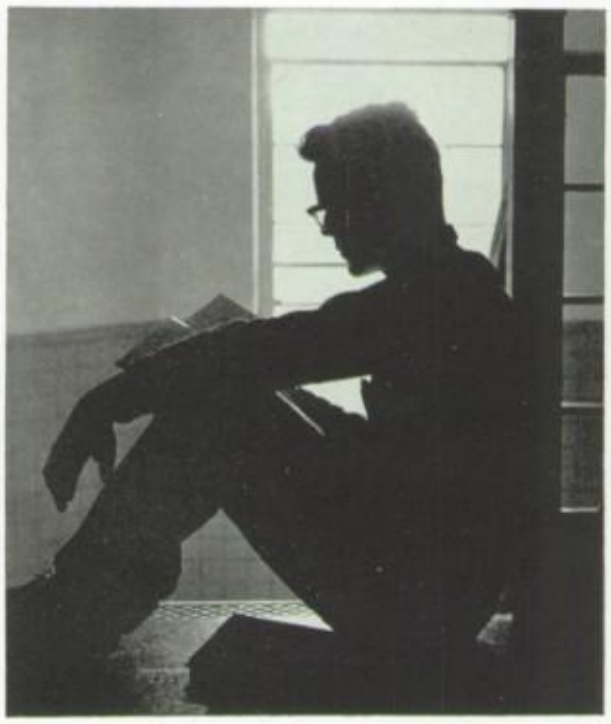
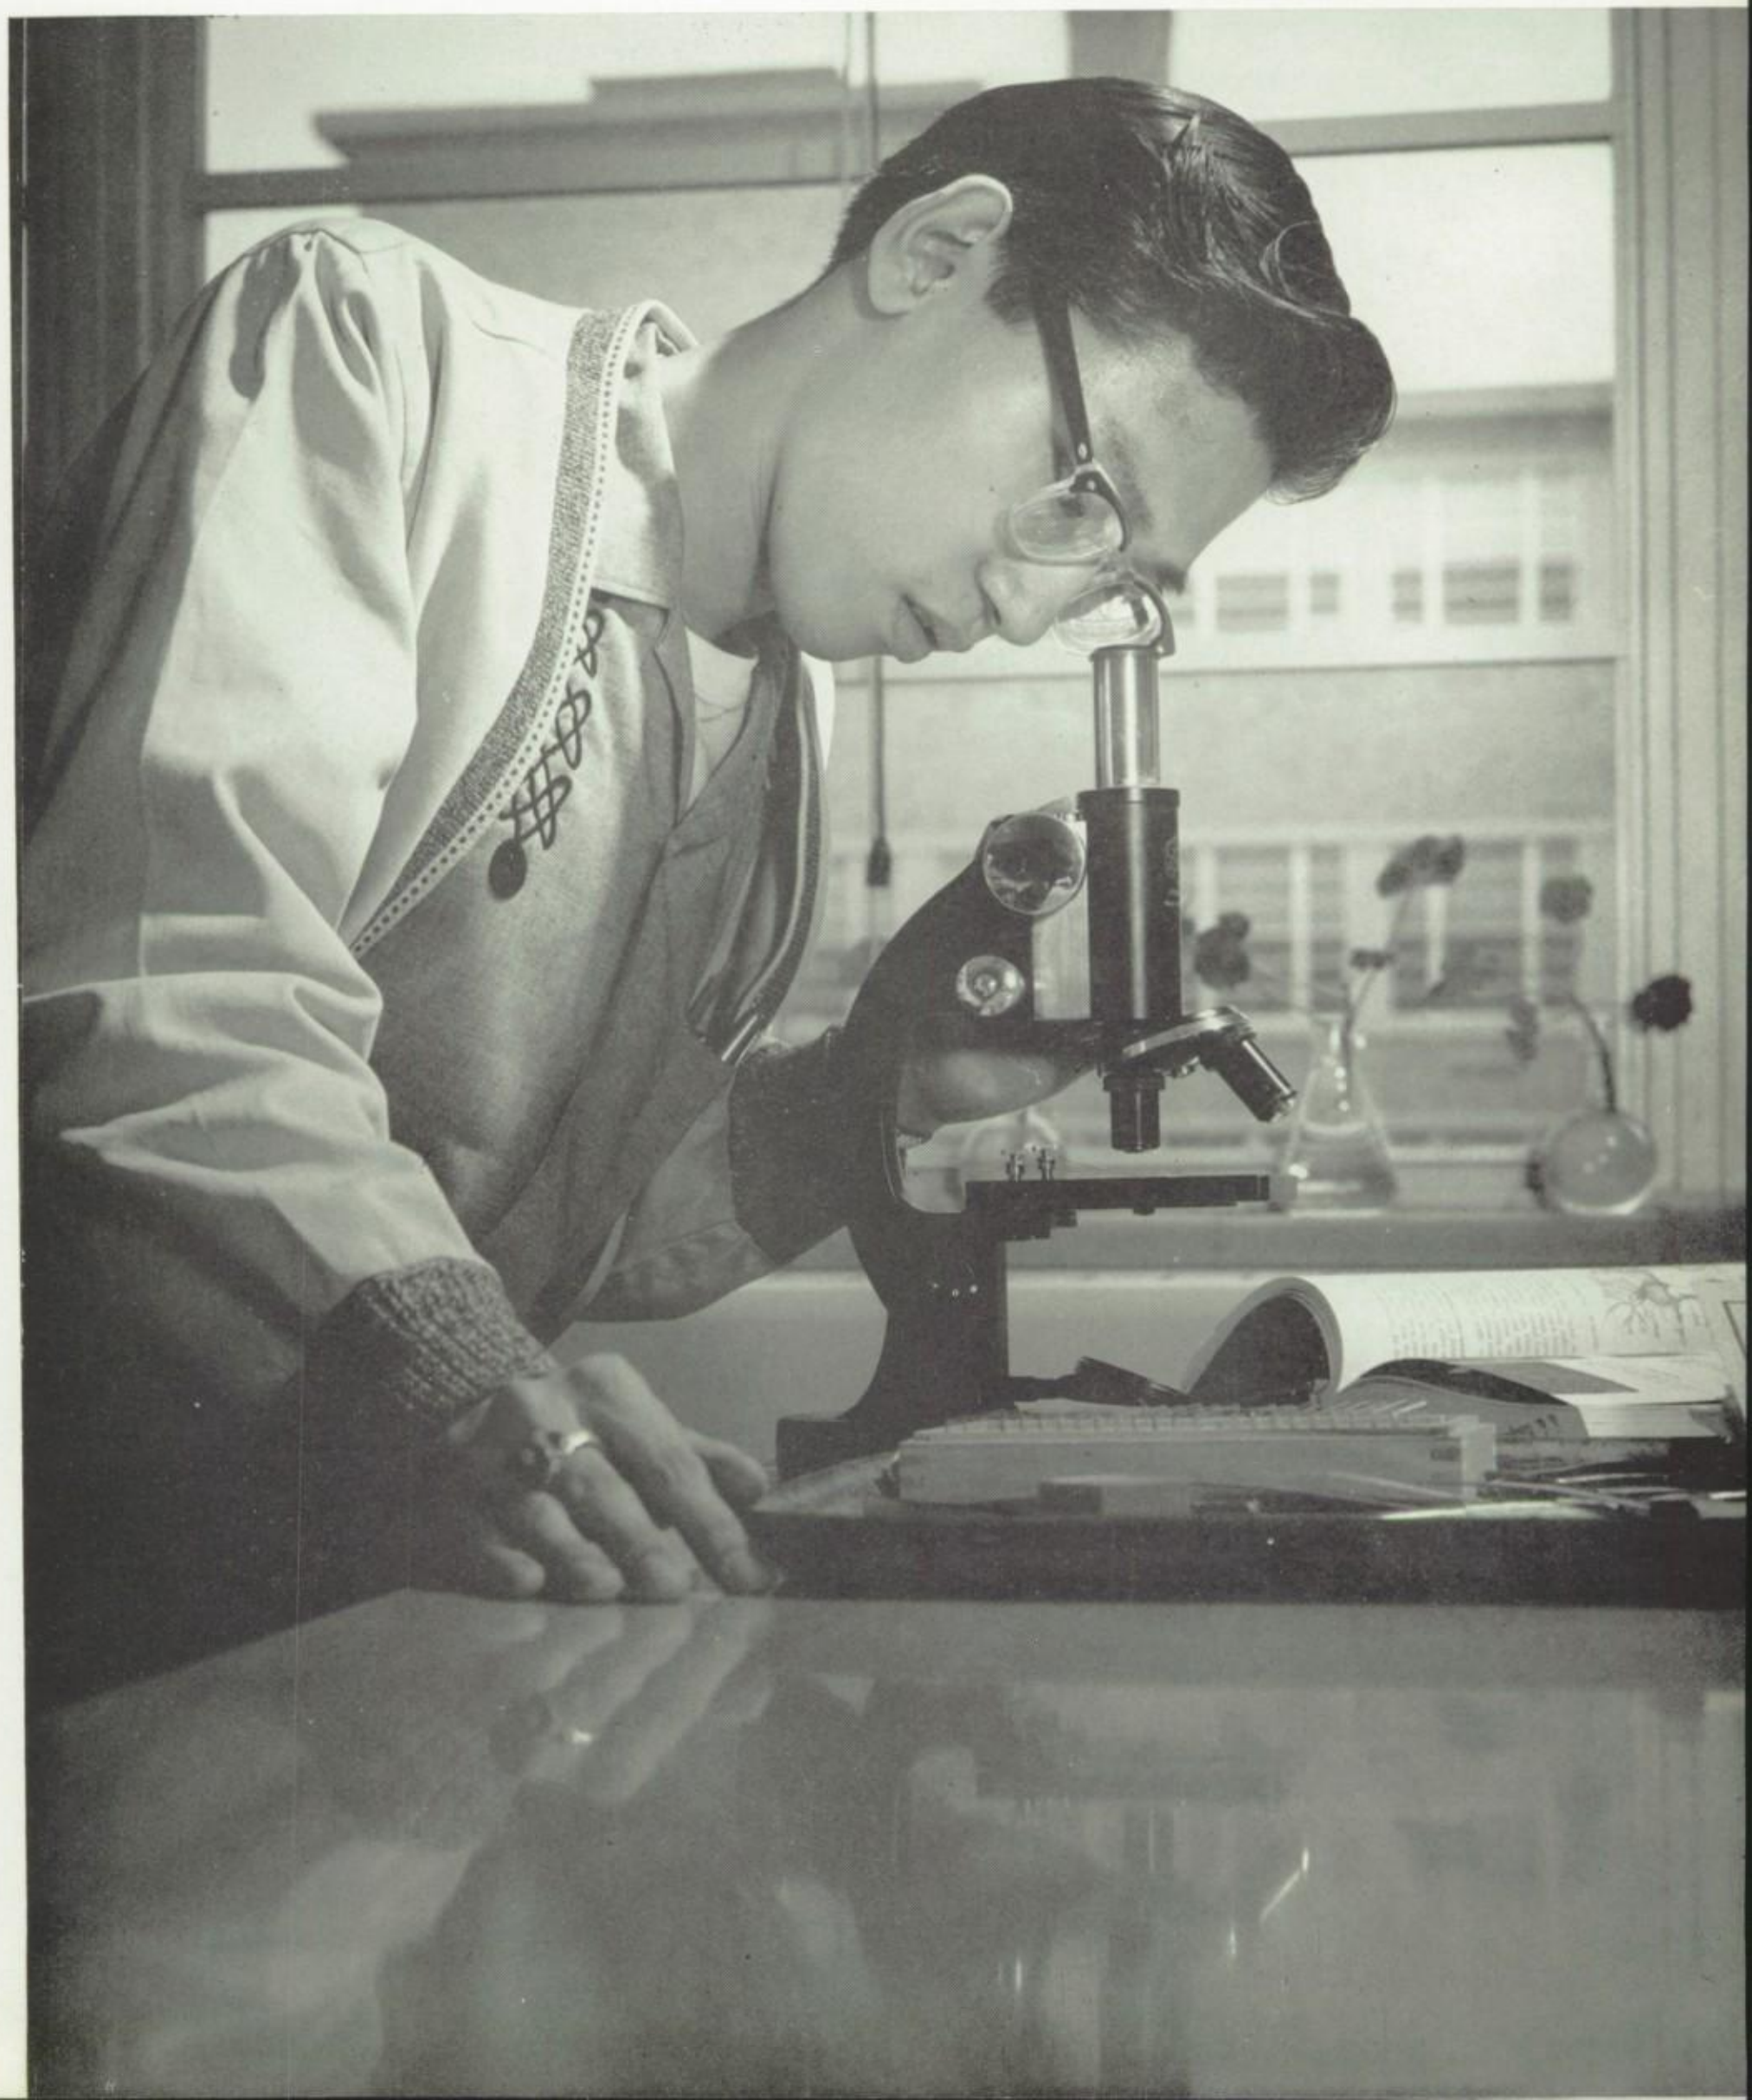
A road to victory—formed by a wildly cheering Woodward student body at half-time in the final Withrow battle.

THE WORLD HAS LAUNCHED SPECIAL CHALLENGES



For us seniors, the adventures of high school have been a priceless preparation for the challenge of the future. Our experiences at Woodward have provided an understanding of the life to come. Our appetite for knowledge has been whetted by books and teachers; we are ever ready TO LEARN. The world of competition has been opened to us as a challenge; we have met it—by staying up an extra half hour to polish a composition, by giving up a phone conversation for study, by generating the spirit that sends a halfback over the goal line; we are prepared TO LIVE. By seeing life in an organization like Woodward, we have developed an affection —the words of the Alma Mater sing for themselves, our faith is always present, the American flag has taken a new beauty. We are able TO LOVE.

AT SENIORS OF 1920, 1930, AND 1940: NOW 1960



Dave Ritter and Peg Fahy take a preview look at a graduation robe

THE FLAME OF YOUTH DANCES IN MEMORIES

We 488 young men and women who comprise the class of 1960 can recall with a smile (or perhaps a tear) that hot September day in 1954 when as bewildered seventh graders we became a part of the Woodward tradition. Those were the days of Woodward the incomprehensible; these are the days of Woodward the friend who shares with us the varied memories of six wonderful years: the echoes of lecturing teachers, the din and confusion as we passed from class to class, the rendezvous with a friend in the main hall. These moments have been climaxed by the Senior Prom and Graduation—a fitting close to these years of foundation.

Senior Class Officers: Bonnie Schafer, Secretary; Joe Buchanan, President; Jan Blersch, Vice-President; Charles Schmitt, Treasurer.

Miss Schwartz, Senior Counselor, Mr. Ruley, Senior Class Advisor, and Bill Blum find the answer to a question in that valuable handbook, "Lovejoy's College Guide."

ADVERTISING: NECESSITY AND PLEASURE

Reflections in a drugstore window.

The purchasing power of Woodward students is reflected in many ways—an automobile, a soda, cosmetics, recreational equipment. Because these students are able to diffuse this power by a jalopy or convertible, many communities (and industries) depend on them.

The mutual pride that Woodward and her community have in each other is expressed in the advertising section of the 1960 WOODWARD TREASURES. The industrial and civic organizations of the community are proud to support a publication such as this. In turn, Woodward is proud to have her name associated with these organizations. Thus, as one facet of mutual benefit, this yearbook evolved.

You seniors have been really great;
As schoolmates you've been splendid!
And HOME ROOM 40 is sorry to see
Your stay at Woodward ended.

The time has come
And we are leaving too,
So, Woodward, we seniors,
Say good-bye to you.

HOME ROOM 203

We could say, "Good luck, seniors,"
But that doesn't seem quite right,
Instead we'll say, with all our hearts,
"Good luck to all Woodwardites!"

IN FINE

To Learn, To Live, To Love—these we feel embody the spirit and standards of Woodward and, therefore, are the theme of our annual. Using these abstractions as a guide, we have attempted in our Introductory Section to capture that obvious but elusive image we call our life. We have pictured tears, smiles, beaming eyes, frowns, red cheeks, faces in concentration, and quiet spirits. In the remaining sections, the theme in its various aspects was applied to the administration and faculty, the underclasses, activities, athletics, and to the seniors. The success of our venture has yet to be determined, but we on the staff certainly know that any failures will not stem from lack of effort.

The effort of producing an annual is a diminuendo-crescendo process; that is, it commences at a high pitch, slackens with routine, and then with a startling burst of energy rises to the zenith where, at the deadline, it suddenly stops. The long interval from September to April meant planning, scheduling, confirming, snapping, developing, unscrambling, studying, cropping, and mailing 3025 photographs. It meant creating, revising, and typing 54,492 words.

Our industry did not go unrewarded, however. There were the laughs, particularly in an erratic photographer who spent six hours taking pictures only to discover that there was no film in his camera. There was the satisfaction in a vividly composed paragraph or in a well lighted, well proportioned photograph. Giving final honors, we now congratulate each other on a job well done, we the best looking, wittiest, most charming and modest geniuses to graduate from Woodward in 130 years.
